CLEVELAND AT BUFFALO.

HE SHAKES HANDS WITH HIS OLD-TIME FRIENDS AND SPEAKS

AT THE CLEVELAND CLUB HOUSE. Wicked Extravagance in Public Expendiure Threatening the Safety of Gov-ernment—The Duty of Democrats.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 12.—The Cleveland Democracy, Buffalo's foremost political organization, having a membership of upward of 1,700, opened its very spacious, elegant and conveniently appointed new clubhouse on Washington street this evening, with ex-President Cleveland dent Cleveland as guest and speaker of the occasion. The house was crowded and the scene was a very brilliant one.

At 7:30 o'clock Mr. Cleveland was escorted from the hotel Iroquois close to the clubhouse, and the formal exercises soon thereafter began in the assembly room, which occupies the greater portion of the upper story. It was crowded almost to suffocation with club members, as were also the adjoining rooms and the broad stairway.

Mr. Cleveland was greeted with the wildest cheering, long continued and often repeated. The president of the club, Herbert P. Bissell, delivered an address upon the purposes and growth of the organization, and extended a welcome to its distinguished patron and guest. Mr. Cleveland, who appeared in splendid health and spirits, replied with a speech, which was delivered with great earnestness and which was received most enthusiastically, every point ng recognized with applause and cheers.

He spoke as follows;

Mr. President and Gentlemen: As I stand for the first time face to face with the Cleveland democracy. I experiencee mingled emotions of responsibility and pride. My sense of responsibility arises from my relation to your organization as its godfather, and my pride from the noble manuer in which you have borne my name. I scknowledge your right to require of me at this time an account of the manner in which I have kept it be political faith to which you are devoted. This right grows out of the fact that the word "democracy," as it stands in the name of your organization, means so much and is so worthy of your care, that its significance should not be in the least clouded by any pretext which is not in keeping with democratic aims and purposes.

not in keeping with democratic aims and purposes.

In giving an account of my political behavior I can only offer a record of political conduct familiar to all my countrymen, and applement this record by the declaration that I have done the best I could to deserve the confidence in me which you have so gracefully manifested. For the character of the record than presented, you yourselves are answerable with me—for it has been made under the indisence and encouragement of the sentiments and doctrines which the Cleveland democracy has cultivated and enforced. When we started together in political life and responsibility your accepted creed taught that politics was something more than adroit jugglery; that there was still such a thing as official duty, and that it meant obligation to the people; that the principles of our government were worthy of conscientious study, and that the doctrines of true democracy, honestly and bravely enforced, promised the greatest good to all our countrymen and exacted through the length and breadth of our and impartial governmental care and indiscriminating justice.

You were not content to allow these truths to exacted through the length and breadth of our land impartial governmental care and indiscriminating justice.

You were not content to allow these truths to remain with you as mere ideal beliefs. They supplied son tant and aggressive metives for your political activity and were your inspiration as you went forth to sie battle in the democratic cause—saing your hope of triumph upon an unwavering faith in the thoughtful and well-informed intelligence of the American people.

Thus you were found doing valiant service in the campaign of education. As the sneke of the last stubbornly fought battle cleared away, no solidiers on the field were found surrounded by more trophics of victory than the forces of the Cleveland democraty.

Surely your rewards are most abundant. You have not only aided in the advancement of the democratic standard, but you have also contributed your full share in demonstrating that the sople can be trusted when aroused to thoughtfulness and duty.

When I sungest to you that much sturdy fighting still awaits all those enlisted in the democratic ranks. I feel that I am speaking to veterans who have no fear of hard campaigning. We may be sure that unless we continue active, watchful warfare, we shall lose what we have gained in the anomer's cause. Insidence is a reground through tempting fallacies and plausible pretexts of friendliness.

I believe the most threatening figure which to-day stands in the way of the safety of our government and the happiness of our people, is reckless and wicked extravagance in our public expenditure. It is the most fatal of all the deadly brood born of governmental perversion, it hides beneath its wings the betrayal of the people's trust, and holds poweriess in its fascinating glance the people's will and consolence. It brazenly exhibits today a billion dollar congrees. But lately a large surplus remained in the people's public treasy rafter meeting all expenditures then by no ans economical. This condition was present to the American people as positive boof that their burden of taxation was in ans tocause unnecessary; and yet while the popular protest is still heard, the harpy of public extravagance devours the surplus and impudently calls upon its asserting victims to years ago a position of a protest is still heard, the harpy of public extravagance devours the surplus and impudently calls upon its appetite. A few short years ago a pinsion roll amounting to $53,000,000 was willingly anintained by our patriotic citizens. Today, public extravagance decrees that three time that sum shall be drawn from the people upon the pretext that its expenditure represents the people level of the soldier. Not many years ago the harbor bill appropriating $11,000,000 gave rise to a loud popular protest. Now, public extravagance commands an appropriation $2,000,000 for the same purposes, and the people are signit. Today millions are paid for barefaced subsidy and this is approved or condened at the behavior of public extravagance, and shus a new marander is turned loose, which in company with its vicious tariff partner, bears pilfered benefit to the households of favored selfah interests.

We need not prolong the details. Turn where we will we see the advance of this devodring and destructive creature.

Our democratic faith teaches us that the use-less exaction of money from the people upon the false pretext of public necessity is the worst of all governments! perversions, and involves the greatest of all dangers to our guarantees of justice and equity. We need not unlearn this lesses to apprehend the fast that behind such excition, and as its source of existence, is found unbite extravagances. The ax will not be laid at the roth of the nuwholesome tariff tree with its vicious inequality and injustice until we reach and destroy its parent and support.

But the growth of public extravagance in these latter days, and its unconcealed and dreadful manifestations, force us to the contemplation of other crimes, of which it is undoubtedly guilty, besides unjust exactions from the people. Our government is so ordained that its life blood flows from the virtue and patriotism of our people, and its health and strength depend upon the integrity and faithfulness of their public sevrants. If these are destroyed, our government, if it endures, will endure only in name, failing to bless those for whom it was created and failing in its missian as an example to mankind.

Public extravagance in its relation to inequitable tariff laws not only lays an unjust tribute bless those for whom it was created and failing in its missian as an example to mankind.

Public extrawagance in its relation to inequitable tariff laws not only lays an unjust tribute upon the people, but is responsible for unfair advantages bettowed upon special and favored interests as the price of partians support. Thus the exercise of the popular will for the benefit of the country at large is replaced by sordid and selfish motives directed to personal advantage, while the snoouragement of such motives in public place, for party ones, deadens the official conscience.

Public extravagance directly distributes gifts and grantities among the people, whose teleration of waste is thus secured or whose past party services are thus compensated, or who are thus britted to future party support. This makes the continuance of partisan power a stronger motive continuance of the masses of our people, who are not dishonest but only heedless, to accustom themselves for that dereliction in public place which it involves. Evidence is thus turnished that our countrymen are in danger of losing the scrupations insistence upon the faithful discharge of duy in the part of their public servants, the regard for conomy and frugality which belongs to sturdy Americanism, the independence which relies upon personal endeavor, and the love of an honest and well-regulated government, all of which lie at the foundation of our free institutions.

Have I overstated the evils and dangers with which the tremendous growth of public extravagance threatens us? Every man who loves his country well enough to pause and think of these great shings must know that I have not.

Lat us, then, as we push on in our campaign of education, especially impress upon our countrymen theliesson which teaches that public extravagance is a deadly, dangerous thing; that frugality and economy are honorable; that the virtue and wtachfulness of the people are the surest safeguards against abuses in their government, and that those who profess to serve their fellow-citizens in a public place must be faithful to their trust.

THE RACE ON THE OCEAN,

The Lack of Coal Will Compel the Itats to

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Up to the close of business hours no news was received at the navy department of the movements of the Charleston, and so far as officials there knew the Itata is still at liberty. Commodore Ram sey, acting secretary, this afternoon said that he did not know where the Charleston was, and that the only news the department had re-ceived today was the arrival of the cruiser San Francisco at Iquique, in northern Chili. As this vessel is to figure in the chase, in case the Itata escapes the Charleston, her movements are of some importance. As the days of the chase run along a new factor appears which will doubtless result speedily in betraying the movements of the pursuer and pursued. The Itata sailed from San Diego last Wednesday evening, six days ago. If pushed to her highest speed she must be nearly out of coal, highest speed she must be nearly out of coal, so that she must soon put into port somewhere to replenish her bunkers.

The Charleston, like most swift cruisers, was obliged to sacrifice some coal-carrying capacity for the sake of boiler and enginerooms and guncarrying capacity. With full bunkers she can carry 800 tons, but if she has been driven at full speed she must have burned 175 tons every twenty-four hours, which would give her full steam power for but four and a half days.

WILL HAVE TO PUT IN FOR COAL? She has now been out three and a half days, and although it is known that she lay at anchor at least one night, her coal supply is probably running so low that it would be hazardous for her—a vessel without sail power—to continue much longer at sea. So that some news from one or both of the vessels may be expected very soon, when they put into port for coal. This will probably be a Mexican port, and immediately may be expected to arise an important question for the determina tion of the Mexican government, and that is the status of the Itata

Some comment was caused among the state department people by the telegraphed state-ment that the Chilian insurgent cruiser Esmeralda is now at Acapulco. The fact that her presence in port is tolerated, is regarded here by some officers as a quasi recognition by the Mexican government of the insurgents as belligerents. If this recognition should take belligerents. If this recognition should take formal shape it might have important results for the insurgents, for under the neutrality laws their vessels would find an asylum in Mexican ports, and might take supplies, although not permitted to take aboard munitions of war, or make any Maxican port the base of operations against Chili.

This doctrine was thoroughly defined in the Alabama case, and it is said that in addition to the precedent set by Great Britain in recognizing the insurgents as beligerents, the Maxican government has not the kindliest feelings towards the present Balmaceda administration in Chili. A prominent officer was asked today how long it would take to recapture the Itata. He replied that he could only answer by recalling the Alabama case, where a vessel of that name continued for two years to commit most sudaclous raids upon American commerce while pursued by at least twenty naval vessels.

COMMODORE RAMSAY INTERVIEWED.

COMMODORE RAMSAY INTERVIEWED So far as the surface indications reveal the real state of affairs, the navy department seems to be less agitated than any other department over the escape of the Chilian steamer Itata

Secretary Tracy left Washington last night for Binghampton, N. Y., to look after some private business. Assistant Secretary Saley stayed at home, and Commodore Ramsay was left as a representative of the secretary of the navy. The commodore was as uncommunica-tive as asual, and stated briefly that he had nothing to say about the Itata or Charleston, and that the Itata had not been recaptured, so far as he knew.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Ricardo Trumbull, member of the Chilian congress, and a partisan of the insurgent party, was arrested last night by the United States marshal for violating the neutrality laws in connection with the shipment of arms and munitions of war on the schooner Robert and Minnie and on the steamer Itata. His bail was fixed at $215,000, and he was released with John D, and Adolph Spreckels as sureties.

City Politics in Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 12.—[Special.]—The adjourned meeting of the May convention (the reformers) was held this afterneon. A resolution was adopted agreeing to go in under the city democratic constitution as adopted April 30th. A demand was coupled with it, however, for another convention to be held within thirty days. other convention to be held within thirty days. The faction organization was ordered to be preserved as a ballot reform association and all clubs were requested to elect one member of an executive committee, whose duty it would be to pressactively the cause of ballot reform at primary elections in Charleston. The convention adjourned subject to the call of the ballot reform committee to be elected.

They Fell Out About a Horse.

RICHNOND, Va., May 12.—A Dispatch special from Lynchburg says: Thomas Foster and Joseph Caldwell, of Amberst county, had a recent difficulty about a horse. The men met today on the public road. Caldwell drew a pistol and fired at Foster twice, missing both times. As he was about to fire the third time, Foster drew his pistol and shot Caldwell in the abdomen. It is believed the wound in fatal. Foster walked three miles and surrendered to a magistrate.

Resolved, That we learn with gratitude that the Christian and temperance people of Atlanta, Ga., are going to make another effort to rid their beautiful and prosperous city of the dens of infamy—the liquor saloons.

Resolved, That we tender to these friends our deepest sympathies in this great undertaking,

THE SHREWD CUBANS. How They Managed the New Tariff on CHICAGO, May 12 .- John W. Link, a spe cial agent of the treasury, recently stationed in New Orleans, arrived in Chicago under special orders to investigate a phase of the McKinley tax upon Cuban cigars that the government had not anticipated, and which is seriously impairing the revenue expected from the tobacco trade. Link has discovered that the Cubans have got away ahead of Uncle the Cubans have got away ahead of Uncle Sam without committing any fraud, and nothing can stop them. Under the McKinley law Cuban cigars are taxed $4.50 per pound and 25 per cent ad valorem duty. The old duty was $2.50 and 25 per cent, respectively. The new law sent prices of Cuban cigars up according to the increase, but soon dealers began to sell Cuban cigars at old prices, and on orders from the treasury but soon dealers began to self customer digar-old prices, and on orders from the treasury department, Link, who was then stationed at New Orleans, began an investigation which resulted in the discovery that the Cuban digar makers have been for some time making their cigars light. They wrapped the cigars much looser and slightly smaller, with the result of saving from two to three pounds in every 1,000 cigars. This makes a saving of from $9 to $13 per thousand cigars, and the practical result is that the increased duty does not bear any harder than the old tariff, and the only difference to the smoker is that he cate difference to the smoker is that he gets a slightly smaller cigar, loosely wrapped.

KENTUCKY POLITICS.

A RED HOT CAMPAIGN COMING TO CLOSE.

HENRY WATTERSON IS NOT AT HOME And Senator Carlisle Is in New York—The Farmers and the Lawyers Having It Out.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—[Special.]—Ken-tucky is on the eve of the most exciting democratic convention she has known in all her record-breaking experience at hotly contested

The city is tonight overflowing with dele gates, candidates and outsiders who have come to see the big pow-wow that commences to-morrow at 12 o'clock, noon.

THE ISSUES AT STAKE. Besides the several regular state offices for which nominees must be named, the place of appellate court clerk, which was filled after an exciting convention a year ago, has re-cently been made vacant by death, and the nominee for it must be named by this convention. There are in all twenty-three candidates for the eight offices, and in each race but one these are so evenly matched that it is impossi-ble to pick a single winner. The consequent opportunities for trading, combinations surprises are many.

A CHAIRMAN WANTED.

The difficulty at the start is in getting some capable man who will consent to act as temporary chairman. Every prominent politician in the state has so far refused to allow his name to be even mentioned, for this place. In fact, the duties of that office are so certain to entail dissatisfaction that no man who values his political future will agree to

TWO SMART MEN. An attempt has been made to get Senator Carlisle to come home from New York, where he is engaged with the tariff commission, and preside as both temporary and permanent chairman, as he would be acceptable to all; but he is too smart to do so, and has positively refused.

Mr. Watterson, who has heretofore had much and waterson, who has herecover had much to do with the state platform adopted by the party, is in the east, and will not be here. The free coinage matter, many leaders urge, should be left alone for this year; but it is claimed by many good democrats that the democrats of the state are not going to be satisfied with only a tariff reform plank, and that, unless the free coinage endorsement is embraced, the party will be defeated next August by the dissatisfied ones combining with the farmers and the third party element. This questions are the control of the c vention at the start, as the result in several of the contests may depend upon it, and be-cause many fear that the party in Kentucky is in danger for the first time in twenty-five

The interest in the nominations proper cen-ters in the race for governor. There are four candidates, two lawyers and two farmers, Hon. John Young Brown, of Henderson, and Attorney General P. Mat Hardin represent the lawyers, and Cassius M. Clay, of Bourbon, and Dr. J. D. Clardy, of Christian, the farmers. It is generally considered that neither of the farmers or alliance candidates can win, and the farmers did not turn out to the primaries in very great force, avidently reserving.

and the farmers did not turn out to the primaries in very great force, evidently reserving themselves unpledged for any third party or independent movement they may conclude to make, when the convention is over. The race for governor will then narrow down between Brown and Hardin, the former having the advantage in instructed votes and apparently in popularity, but standing woefully in danger of a shrewd combine by the astute politician Hardin, who has not antagonized the former candidate's votes, and who, many believe, will be nominated.

M. C. Alford, ex-chairman of the state contral committee, has a walk-over for lieutenant governor, but all the other races are full up, and will each and every one create intense excitement and the hottest kind of a contest, with all the results in doubt.

THE CASE OF REV. DR. D. C. KELLEY. What the Bishops Have Done With His

Appeal. NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 12.—[Special.]— The college of bishops of the Methodist Epis-copal church south has rendered a decision in the matter of the appeal from the ruling Bishop Hargrove, on a point of law raised in Bishop Hargrove, on a point of law raised in the Tennessee conference, in the proceedings in the case of Rev. D. C. Kelley, D.D., who, at the last session, was suspended from the ministry for six months on the ground that he had left his charge without proper authority to make the cauvass for the governorship on the prohibition ticket.

Dr. Kelley denied his guilt. The conference voted by an overwhelming majority that a trial was not necessary, but Bishop Hargrove appointed a committee to try the case. The friends of Dr. Kelley denied the right of the bishop to appoint this committee, and the construction of the law on this point has been the subject of much newspaper discussion pro struction of the law on this point has been the subject of much newspaper discussion pro and con.

The suspension of Dr. Kelley was by virtue of this committee, not the whole conference, this being the procedure of the church, once a trial committee is appointed.

Dr. Kelley appealed the case to the general conference. The appeal to the college of bishops was from Bishop Hargrove's ruling on a point of law. This appeal was offered by Rev. S. F. Haynes and T. J. Duncan at the Tennessee conference. Dr. Kelley's lips were closed until some weeks ago, when, at the expiration of his term of suspension, he resumed preaching, and has everywhere been greeted by great audiences. He has just closed a series of speeches in Mississippl in the interest of prohibition.

At the meeting of the college of bishops the appeal was considered with the greatest care, and the college sustained every ruling made by Bishop Hargrove with the exception of one, the college holding in this case that the conference should not have been denied the right to appoint a trial committee.

This decision of the college or bishops has been awaited with a great deal of interest, not only in Tennessee but in other states, as the Kelley case attracted general attention on account of the action taken. Dr. Kelley has been for many years prominently connected with the Methodist church, serving as missionary to China, the pastor of McKendree church, the largest in the connection, and the secretary and treasurer of the board of missions. He has also filled the position of the editor of The Round Table, a literary journal. The general conference, which will meet in Memphis in 1894, will act upon the appeal taken by Dr. Kelley to that body.

Archhishop Francis Janseens, of New Orleans, supreme spiritual director of the order, was the celebrant, and Archbishop Ryan, of this city, preached the sermon. The time of the convention today was taken up in organizing and routine business. During the convention it is understood that a number of amendments to the charter will be submitted to it. The convention will remain in session three days.

The Raging Forest Fires in The West-

Great Damage Done.
PEMBINA, Wis., May 12.—Forest fires have broken out along the line of the Soo road, be-tween this place and Hermansville, and are ourning with a vigor that bodes no good to the cedar interest unless rain descends very soon.
Just across the Wisconsin line from the station of Menominee river on the Soo, a line of fire far north as the eye can reach, and, from the plain to see that the fire runs back a long dis-tance north from the railroad. There has been no rain of consequence in this locality for two weeks or more and everything, is as dry as tinder.

BEYOND HUMAN CONTROL. Huntingpon, Pa., May 12.—Over 4,000 acres of valuable timber lands are affame within a radius of seven miles of this place, being swept away to an alarming extent. Mountain fires are beyond all human control and can only be extinguished by a rainfall.

The farmers in the whole burning district have sustained irreparable losses to fencing and hundreds of acres of growing grain have been rained. The fires originated from either railroads or wandering bands of gypsies.

The howeress weapers. THE HOMELESS PROPLE.

is left. Fields Station, with its four sawmills and general store, is no more, and 300 people who lived there Sunday are today without home or roof to cover their heads. Otea, or Dingman, as it is known to the postal authorities, is but a collection of smoking ruins, with 200 people who called the place home, standing around in despair.

Park City, in Lincoln township, went out in fire and smoke yesterday morning. Nothing is left of the cluster of small houses that marked the place. Lilly Station is hardly worth the name of a station, as only a small hotel and a smaller railroad station is left to mark the town site. Freight cars without number, and logging trains, melted away into ashes on the tracks where they stood awaiting their loads of lumber.

The loss will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The Verdict in the Boyd-Theyer Case in Nebrasha.

Chroago, May 12.—A special dispatch from Omaha says: A bombshell has been exploded in political circles by the announcement that the official verdict in the Hoyd-Thayer contest case was rendered by the supreme court without the discussion of issues and the merits of the case by the judges of the court. Never during the entire proceedings was there a conference held at which Judge Maxwell was permitted to express his views or to interchange views with his colleagues.

BOMB-THEOWING IN PORTUGAL

An Explosion in the Minister of the In Lisson, May 12.—In the midst of the alarm-caused here by the financisi panic a sensation was caused today by an explosion, supposed to be the work of the republican party, which took place in the ministry of the interior. The local authorities are keeping the facts, so far as possible, from the general public, but it is known that the explosion was caused by a dynamite bomb, which caused a tremendous report, did considerable damage and spread the alarm in many quarters. There is no clue to the actual perpetrator of the outrage, which, owing to the excited state of the pub-lic mind, is being considerably magnified in importance.

PERTION OF GEORGIA

ts in Savannah for the Purpose of Electing a Successor to the Late Bishop Beckwith.

BAVANNAR, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—The Protestant Episcopal convention of Georgia will meet here tomorrow with a full attendance. The chief interest in the body is centered in the selection of a successor to the late Bishop Beckwith. THE CONSTITUTION'S correspondent had a talk with Captain J. R. F. Tatnall, e of Christ's church delegates, and promi-ntly identified with the work of the church section. He paid a high tribute to sellor Gaylor, and said that he undoubtdly had a strong and steady following in the convention. Captain Tatnall has been probing

MR. GAYLOR'S RECORD. "Mr. Gaylor," said he, "has many admirers, and is well thought of by many who know of him only by repute. The only objection that is urged against him is that he is an extreme that opinion have acknowledged that they have no basis for it except hearsay. If it is true, of course it will be the foundation of position to him. It will be easy to dis-er the chancellor's views in the matter, If he is not so highly ritualistic as some have stated, I would not be surprised if he is sected. He seems well fitted for the ardnous and honorable position of bishop of this

"With regard to Assistant Bishop Wingfield, California, the objection will be urged that he is too old. This is essentially a miss e. By that, I mean to say the church in Georgia is still weak, and comparatively in the first stages of its growth. Outside of nnah, Atlanta and Augusta, it has hardly ed a firm foothold. The extension of the church, by active work throughout the state, is the great work the next bishop will have to supervise, whoever he may be. If he faces the situation, that will really be his life work; a better missionary field cannot be found. An old man is practically incapacitated from tarting and carrying on the great work. The pirit might be there, but the flesh would be weak. It requires a young man, one like neellor Gaylor, just in the flush of mand—one who has physical strength to stand only the mental but the physical strain; only the mental but the physical strain; who can carry on an active, lous work of visitation to remote parts of state, to cheer and encourage the underkers, and study in position the needs of field. With such a man, what may be ught about is beyond prediction. Mr.
ngfield is agrand Christian character, a man I many qualities, one who would deserve and seeke the love and respect of all Episcopai-ns in Georgia, but his age—sixty—would rove a great barrier to the rapid extension of as church;

REV. C. C. WILLIAMS.
The same objection, in a slightly different m, will be urged against Rev. Mr. Willms, of Augusta. He is a man of refined initiality, but he is physically weak, and it a question if he could, any better than Bishop ingfield, stand the severe strain of the posime. He is a man who would recognize his ty and spare no effort. No one will doubt at who knows the sterling character of the m, but would he not speedily break down? In see that the convention not only to consider the spiritual and intelestral side of the candidates, but must be at them as well from a physical standpoint. The three mentioned am to be the only candidates in view at seent; in fact, I am inclined to believe there il be several, who I cannot say, and it may present; in fact, I am inclined to believe there will be several, who I cannot say, and it may be that from among the latter will come Bishop Beckwith's successor. Whoever is elected though, it is insured in advance, he will be a man of whom not only every Episcopalian, but Georgians, may be proud, one who will fitly represent the religion of Christ."

The advisability of having a bishop of active temperament and sound physique is urged by a number of the other delegates, and it is evident there is a strong current in favor of a man of the character outlined by Captain Tatnall.

Delegates from Augusta, Macon, Columbus, runswick and other places arrived today, and Srunswick and other places arrived today, and temorrow morning the representatives of the other churches in the Episcopal diocesan convention will arrive. Bishop Hugh Miller Thompson, of Mississippi, is among those now here. Tomorrow morning he is to deliver a memorial address on Bishop Beckwith of whom he was a great admrer. He will also take next in the missioners recruired to the control of take part in the missionary services that will be held each night, and will endeavor to inas to the n of more active efforts in that direction into the Georgia," said he, "is essentially a mis-nary field for the church. Not only is that true of this state, but it is true of every other state in the south."

South of Virginia the church has comparatively little strength, but with its natural great capabilities and the great opportunities doubtless its growth will be rapid. "All shrough the central belt of the south," he continued, "there is one of the finest fields in the world for missionary efforts, a field that at present is hardly touched. Take the slip of territory including western North and South Carolina, northwestern North and South Georgia, the mountains of Alabama and the sand hills of Mississippi, and you will have a population of hundreds of thousands of people of pure Angle-Saxon origin, with a religious body. Only those who have traveled through there really appreciate the situation and the pressing needs of that section. Beyond the efforts of a few itinerant ministers and colporteurs, they have been left to themselves. We have established some churches, and they have been doing a good work and meeting with much success. The people are good natured, naturally brainy, and only need developing to bring them up to a high standard. Everything is there in readiness for the workers, and a rich harvest is assured them.

position will be ascertained tomorrow by telegraph, if no authoritative statement is made. There is some talk tonight of Rev. Mr. Burton a prominent rector of Richmond, Va., and it is understood that his name will be presented for consideration. He is heartily endorsed by letter from the bishop of Virginia as a man who in every way would fill the position with henor to himself and it. He is a westerner by birth, but married a southern woman, and has been identified with the south for many years. The succession to Bishop Beckwith, as it now lies, is between Chancellor Gaylor and Rev. C. C. Williams. Nothing definite of the strength of either will be known before Thursday. Whoever is successful must receive a majority of the votes of both clergy and laiety.

BENEFACTOR'S DAY.

Macon, Ga., May, 12.—[Special.]—This is the birthday of George I. Seney, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the great philanthropist. On April 1, 1881, he gave $125,000 to Wesleyan female college at Macon. This donation was no April fool, and it has been the means of making the college building the handsomest piece of educational architecture in the south. In remembrance of Mr. Seney's princely gift, May 12th has always been known in the annals of Wesleyan as Benefactor's day, and on the night of the 12th the young ladies of the college always give a grand exhibition in the chapel of the college. This annual entertainment occurred tonight. There was a large audience present.

WATER IS WANTED.

Macon Will Yet Have to Own Her Own Waterworks. Macox, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—Macon is still digging away on the all-important question of the whole city has come to realize the gravity of the situation and the great danger of allowing it to remain as it is.

Now, to the great joy of all, 250,000 gallons from the ice factory has been turned into the reservoir, and now eight instead of two feet, as heretofore, are in the reservoir.

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of the board of trade was held yesterday at which were present the mayor and members of council, every one anxious to see something done to bring relief.

Numerous talks were made expressing concern with the situation and censuring the water company at not having made provisions for the people. Resolutions were passed looking to a speedy remedy of the difficulty. A resolution from the committee appointed by the board of trade a few days age was adopted. The resolution suggested that the city take steps at once to secure a sufficient supply of water, and if necessary to arrange to build its own waterworks.

Mayor Hanson, followed this up with a resolution.

necessary to arrange to build its own waterworks.

Mayor Hanson followed this up with a resolution, which was passed, suggesting to council that they secure authority from the next legislature to condemn and buy the present waterworks if some remedy was not reached beforehand. The board of trade was somewhat divided as to whether the city should stick to the present spring water or resort to the river.

It is the general impression that the river will have to be resorted to for securing water for sprinkling and fire purposes.

At any rate, the matter is now well under way, and it is believed only a few months will elapse before Macon owns her own waterworks.

It is also pretty certain that an immediate increase sufficient to bridge over the present great trouble will be had.

AN INTERESTING BILL. Will the Board of Education Be Electer by Popular Vote? Macon, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—The board of public education of Bibb county met this evening to arrange for the closing exercises of the public schools next month, and for other the public schools near intense, and the purposes.

This meeting calls to mind the fact that the representatives from Bibb will be asked to have passed at the summer session of the legislature a bill to make the position of superintendent of the public schools and members of the board of education elective by the people, instead of the method that has been prevailing all these warm of appointment. Some dislike the selfperpetuating feature of the board and say when a member resigns or dies the board should not have the power of selecting his successor, but that this privilege should rest with the people. They do not wish the superintendent elected by the board, but wish him chosen by propular yets.

It is not known how general is this desire for a change in the law. It is said that is memorial will be presented to Bibb's representatives asking them to favor the proposed bill.

Baxter will Succeed Jones.

Macon, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—It is a generally conceded fact that Director John S. Baxter, of the Southwestern railroad, will succeed the late John E. Jones as president. Dr. Baxter is one of Macon's wealthiest and most highly esteemed citizens. He is a splendid business man, and has been a director of the Southwestern railroad a number of years.

Macon, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—Today Rev. John W. Burke, while walking the counter in the store of Lamar & Sons, fell through the trap door from the first floor to the basement. It was at first thought that he was fatally injured. He fell feet foremost into the cellar, but the fallswas broken by steps which led down to the cellar. He was severely bruised but not seriously hurt, as his many friends will be glad to learn. He had a narrow escape, however, from terrible injuries.

THE DRUGGISTS

Pharmacoutical Association is being held here today.

Dr. J. P. Smith, of Augusta, introduced Mr. Stovall, who made the welcome address, and in a neat little speech extended the hospitalities of the Electric City to the state pharmacists. The address was responded to by Mr. Harry Sharp, of Atlanta. Mr. Sharp's address was as follows:

Only a few moments ago I was informed that it would be my privilege to respond in behalf of the visitors. When the gentleman so kindly invited me to say something, I am sure he did not anticipate a laviah display of genius and gestures. It is to he regretted that I am so unpracticed in obstory as not to be able to make a befitting acknowledgment of the gracious words af welcome which fell from the lips of the eloquent gentleman who is noted for his flowers of rhetoric, while I represent the faded flowers of thetoric, while I represent the faded flowers of the inateria medica, but feel assured that the kindly expressions of regard find prompt reciprocal sentiments in the hearts of each and all of us.

I congratulate the druggists of Georgia upon the privilege of enjoying Augusta's proverbial hospitality. It is obvious that Georgis has begun to realize August's advantages. The doctors, the festive drummers and the druggists have swooped down upon her with alarming rapidity, and they it is who know a good ching when they see it. It is pleasant to know that, having surmounted her troubles, her people talk Augusta and are enraptured with her present life and tuture glory. I dare say when all visit her again she will be still climbing the golden elevator. We again thank you for your proffered hospitality, and can assure you that this event will be firmly set in memories' class.

A HIGHER STANDARD CALLED FOB.

Dr. S. C. Durban, of Augusta, read a paper upon the necessity of a higher standard in pharmacy. He recommended as a means thereto the non-recognition by the state board of all diplomas, requiring the examination of all. The paper brought out considerable discussion, which grew quite warm. The leaders in the discussion were D. S. Payne, the state chemist; President Goodwin, Secretary Slack, Curtis, Crosby and Land.

All the pharmacists agreed with the views of the author of the paper, but there were differences of opinion as to how to carry out the views.

Dr. Crosby favored securing the assistance of the medical association to carry out the riews.

Drs. Slack and Goodwin favored immediate Drs. Stack and Goodwin favored immediate actiononpart of the pharmacists, independently of the medical association, as the medical association was opposed by other schools of medicine, and they favored members of the association going to work directly as individuals to have the present state laws of pharmacy so amended as to require an examination of all applicants to become pharmacists, doing away with the recognition of diplomas. This latter view was adopted, and the president was applied to a regime to the president was applied to a regime to the second pharmacists.

tion of all applicants to become pharmacists, doing away with the recognition of diplomas.

This latter view was adopted, and the president was authorized to appoint a committee of one or more in each county to visit the legislators, and get them to have the pharmacy law so amended.

At the opening afternoon's session, Secretary Slack resigned on account of the pressure of business, after having held the office for six years. The following officers were elected, for the ensuing year: President, H. R. Slack, Jr., LaGrange; first vice president, E. M. Wheat, Columbus; second vice president, C. M. Crosby, Marietta; third vice president, T. P. Smith, Augusta; secretary, H. H. Arrington, Summerville; treasurer, M. H. Taylor, Macon.

Columbus was selected as the place for holding the next convention.

Dr. Land, of Augusta, read a paper on the best preparation of citric magnesia, also upon the preparing of fruit jnice.

Dr. J. P. Turner, of Columbus, was appointed local secretary of the association.

The association will memorialize the legislature to tax pharmacists under one general tax, the same as other businesses. They are charged extra tax when they use spiritnous liquor in the preparation of prescriptions, be, sides state, county and city tax to do business. The secretary's report showed an increased membership of the association over of 20 per cent last year, and in good financial condition. The secretary reported the securing of encouragement by the legislature passing a law prohibiting the sale of adulterated or inferior drugs, making the violation a penal offense.

Dr. Payne suggested that the association call ferior drugs, making the violation a penal offense.

Dr. Payne suggested that the association call attention of the doctors of Georgia to the advantage that would accrue to the public by having medicines given in teaspoonful doses, which would reduce the danger of poisonous drugs to minimum, instead of giving drops by a teaspoonful.

The Fourth Time He Has Skipped.

Augusta, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—Mr. A. S. Huff, an upholsterer, who came to Augusta three or four months ago, has skipped this town, worst of all, having deserted his wife. Mrs. Huff is a Jewess from Atlanta, and she married contrary to the wishes of her parents. Several years ago Huff was stopping at the Palmetto house, and left owing $21 board. Mrs. Huff is now with her sister, Mrs. Von Tona, on Ellis street. This is the fourth time Huff has deserted his wife. He gave her the slip in Macon, Columbus and Savannah. Mrs. Huff says her husband does not drink, but is of a roving disposition, and always wants to be on the go. She has been left without money, and is much distressed over the matter. Huff left here for unknown parts last Saturday.

said that he did know something which he did not think he ought to conceal. At first, he did not want to get mixed up in the case, but as the trial drew near, he felt that he ought to make a statement. So he had told how, ou the day of the killing, he had met the Birds on the road. They got out of their buggy, and all had a drink of whisky at a branch. The Birds told Lee that they were going to Norton's to get their meat or to kill him. Many other things came out that were new to the citizens of Effingham. The state opposed a postponement of the case. Judge Adams argued in favor of putting off the trial until all the inportant witnesses could be obtained. Judge Falligant continued the case until the November term.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

The Effect of Undue Religious Excitament.

GREENESBORO, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—
There has been a revival in progress at a colored church in Greenesboro for the past month, and excitement among the colored citizens has reached a tremendous high state. Far into the morning hours the shouts of the converted and the sonorous tones of the preachers and exhorters have rung out on the air. Dozens and dozons have been carried away with the spirit of excitement, and about fifty have professed conversion. Among those who have attended and have led in the shouting and have been most affected by the revival, was a woman named Ann Colt. She has been fairly carried away with the excitement. Yesterday morning, during the services, while the church was resounding with shouts and the clapping of hands, she was suddenly stricken with paralysis and fell to the floor. One side was entirely paralyzed and consternation seized the congregation. The woman is speechless and helpless from the stroke. The paralysis is attributed to the terrific excitement and nervous strain wrought by the meeting and its attendant methods of "working up the sinners."

The place selected for the celebration is the famous Big Springs, which is well known to many throughout the state. Kverybody is invited to spend a jolly day in Baford with us. THE BITE OF THE BATTLESNAKE

LAFAYETTE, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—Rat-tlesnakes have been creating terror in some sections of Walker county. Some time ago Mr. John Reed lost a valuable horse from the bite of a rattler. The snakes bite horses and cows while they are feeding, and horses and cows while they are feeding, and in every case where one of these animals has been bitten death has resulted.

Lincolnton, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—Colonel N. A. Crawford, as usual, has the first strawberries of the season. Dr. George Patterson and Judge T. H. Remsen went up to Colonel Crawford's and indulged in a strawberry-eating match. Two to one was bet in favor of the judge, and it is said that he did come out ahead, but if he did it was not much, for the doctor came down looking as round as a butter ball, and as "sassy" as a game rooster.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—On last Saturday, at a negro piente on Mr. J.
L. Simmons's farm, near here, some negrees, three in number, used some offense to some ladies and children, who were with Mr. Simmons, whereupon he used the butt end of his whipstaff very freely, knocking the three insolent negroes to the ground. The ladies and children were very much frightened and Mr. Simmons drove away with them immediately.

As he was leaving, one negro by the name of John Moon, arose and drew his pistol and awore "that he would shoot the man that knocked him down." Mr. Simmons came to town, got a warrant for the said John for carknocked him down." Mr. Simmons came to town, got a warrant for the said John for carrying a pistol concealed, and in company with Sheriff Brooks, returned for the negro.

After Mr. Simmons left the negroes became so boisterous that some other white men heard them, and went to see what the matter was. On arriving they soon found out, but before Mr. Simmons got there with the sheriff, the negroes had dispersed under the persuasion that was used by the other white men that had arrived after Mr. Simmons left, the negroes preferring to take to their heels and dodge behind trees than to face two or three white men of Madison county grit.

This John Moon is a negro of bad character and is wanted here for several offenses, one of them being murder. He killed a negro last fall at a railroad camp in this county, skipped out by the light of the moon, and this is the first he has been heard of since, as he has been in hiding, and came out this time only for a few minutes and got into trouble. He is a medium-sized mulatto negro about twenty-five years old, and any information in regard to him will be thankfully received by the sheriff of Madison county.

A CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP.

A CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP. The Rome Tribune Passes Into a New Man-

Rome, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—At last The Tribune-of-Rome has been sold. Messrs. Gardner and Gross, of Chattanooga, have for some time been figuring on a deal for the paper, but this afternoon the contract was first settled on. Captain John J. Seay, the present proprietor, bought The Tribune last fall from the Tribune Publishing Company, made a splendid campaign paper, and won the fight under the editorship of John Locke Martin. Mr. Iverson Branham and Mr. O. L. Frost assumed charge of the paper about the first of this year, and have run it very successfully. Captain Seay said to Ten Constitution that a trade was made this afternoon with Messrs. Gardner and Gross. They bought the paper, lock stock and barrel; jithat the papers were now being drawn, and that the papers were now being drawn, and that they would assume management at once. The new staff of editors so far engaged will be Gardner and Gross, E. W. Humphreys and W. V. Brumby. Whitmire, of The Bruns-wick Times, has been editing the paper for the last day or two.

A NARBOW ESCAPE. Mrs. Wright Almost Burned to Death at

GREENESBORO, Ga., May 12.- [Special.] Mrs. Julia Wright, the mother-in-law of Judge Jesse P. Wilson, was severely burned yesterday morning.

Mrs. Wright is an aged lady, but still is comparatively active and energetic. She was attempting to light a fire in a stove, when the match fell from her hand almost an almost an almost an almost clothing. In a moment the flames almost en-veloped her, but with rare presence of mind where the first with the next room, where Judge Wilson was, endeavoring at the same time to keep the fire down by beating it with her hands. As soon as she entered Judge Wilson hands. As soon as she entered Judge whison seized a heavy blanket and wrapped it quickly about her, and in a few seconds the flames were extinguished. As quickly as this was done, however, Mrs. Wright was quite badly burned. Her lips and face were blistered and there were other severe burns on her person. Judge Wilson's hands were severely burned in his efforts to save her.

THAT WONDERFUL MOCKING BIRD. He Continues to Surprise the People of Put-

The bird is the sweet singer of Eatonton, and is now practicing on "Uncle Remus's" revival hymn, and is making fine headway. The boys are teaching the bird to talk, and it says "hello" and other words as plainly as a parrot. Putnam county is ahead on birds.

THE FIRE PARADE. The Annual Celebration of the Boys in Rome, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—The annual parade of the firemen of Rome took place this afternoon. The companies were inspected by the mayor and council of the city. The companies are better equipped and present a better display than ever before. Twelve reels, engine and trucks were in the procession. The decorations of the reels and trucks were tastefully done by the ladles. About 200 firemen were uniformed, and the Knights of Pythias band headed the procession. Great crowds of spectators witnessed the parade.

TRUCK GOING WEST.

A Large Shipment of Potatoes Sent in That SAVANNAH, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—The first carload of new potatoes for the west this season, was shipped today. Last season truck was shipped west for the first time, and as that market was found more profitable than the north, heavy shipments will be made this year. Truckers say potatoes will average $300 an acre this season. The bulk of the cabbage has also been shipped west, and it is freely predicted that in a season or two more, half of the product of this territory and Florida will go in that direction.

Betting on a Cock Fight. Betting on a Cock Fight.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—All the sports of this city who can get away have gone to Charleston, carrying with them Savannah's best game cocks. They will be entered in the interstate tournament, beginning there tomorrow and continuing three days. They went well heeled, and will either lose or win heavily. Much money has also been bet on the main here.

BUFORD, Ga., May 13.—[Special.]—The Hon. S. T. Bradwell, state school commissioner, will deliver an address to the citizens and the students of the Buford High school at the academy tonight. It is through the kindness of Professor Gordon's invitation to our school commissioner that we are to have this treat, and the event will be both pleasing and beneficial to all.

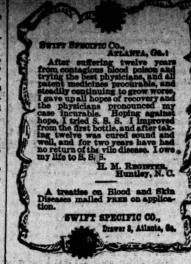

R. H. Allen's cornet band will liven up the occasion with music.

HARTWELL, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—Mr. Pope Brown, one of Hart county's most progressive young farmers, says that he has the finest cotton in the county. It has from four to five leaves. He gives as a reason that he plants early, from the 8th to the 12th of April; plows deep, misnures heavily with guano and puts in all the cotton seed that he can spare.

A Strong List of Georgia Merchants.

It may be remarked that some things grow more popular the oftener they are seen and used. Hawkes's crystallized lenses are an example of this. They have continued to grow in public favor, year by year, until it sometimes seems that they are supplied with them. But hundreds and thousands are just beginning to wear glasses, or are just thinking of doing so, and so the demand increases, and the sales grow larger.

Hawkes's lens-grinding plant elicits the most complimentary remarks everywhere among A Strong List of Georgia Merchants.

Hawkes's lens-grinding plant elicits the most complimentary remarks everywhere among those who are interested in spectacles and eye-glasses, and they are not slow to show their appreciation of a really first-class, thoroughly equipped optical house. The finest lenses are mounted in frames adapted to the face of the wearer, and it follows naturally that a perfect fit is obtained. Prominent dealers in the various towns and cities of the country represent this house in their respective places, and Hawkes's Crystallized Lenses can be fitted to such persons as desire them in almost any such persons as desire them in almost any

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 13, 1891.

A Rock That Grew as It Rolled. Several weeks ago a correspondent of The New York Tribune interviewed Captain E. P. Howell, and with each copy or comment by other newspapers the opinions attributed to him have been so amplified and modified that, like the traditional story of the three black crows, it is scarcely recognized by its author on its return. The statement that "Mr. Blaine was the only statesman of the administration" has been so contorted as to quote Captain Howell as having said that he is the only statesman in public life in the United States," and other equally unauthorized remarks have, in the perambulations of the original interview, been given to the public with an air of authenticity. The Athens Banner hits the nail on the head when it says:

The Banner refuses to believe much that The Troy Budget puts in the mouth of Captain Evan Howell. The Banner, like every other friend of Captain Howell, knows him too well to give credense to the full story of the interview referred to by the wiry republican editor of The Troy Budget, and feels called upon to denounce the spirit in which

The above is submitted to those of our ontemporaries who have been losing sleep on account of the aforesaid interview. Poor Tom Magill.

The death of Mr. Tom Magill, at Indian-apolis, yesterday morning, will make many a sad heart throughout the country.

Mr. Magill was the freight and passenger contracting agent of the Georgia Associated Traffic lines, including the Central, the Western and Atlantic, the Georgia and the South Carolina railways, with headquarters at Chicago. A few days ago he was injured In a railway accident near Indianapolis, but hopes were entertained of his recovery until the day before his death.

Tom Magill was probably the most popu lar railroad man in the United States Handsome, chivalrous and genial, he was at all times the model gentleman, as well as the model man of business. Wherever he went he won hosts of friends. He was al ways helping others, and his clear head and big heart turned the ordinary routine of business into profit and pleasure for both the railroads and the public. No man, after meeting him once, ever forgot him, and the announcement of his untimely death will be read with sorrow everywhere, while the sympathies of all will go out to his grief-stricken family.

Ramie and the Forbes Process.

For the benefit of some of our northern and eastern friends who, although they seem to be interested in the ramie business. are not disposed to keep up with the devel opment of the processes for obtaining the fiber, it ought to be explained that those who are most familiar with the subject have discarded the idea that machinery can be profitably employed in treating the plant.

A great many thousands of dollars and s good deal of ingenuity have been expended in the invention of decorticating machines, and always with the same result. The ma chines are too costly and too clumsy to be profitable. Decortication is only a part of the process that produces the fiber. The largest part of the problem 'lies in the degumming process, which must go forward vithout injury to the delicate and silk-like fiber which is the basis of the bark. No machine has as yet been invented that will do the work in a perfect or profitable man-

Until Mr. W. T. Forbes, of Atlanta, invented his process, there was no method superior to the slow and tedious proces which has been employed in China and India for generations. Perhaps it may be as well to say that we have no sort of interest in the Forbes invention beyond the fact that it is an Atlanta affair, which appeals to our local pride, and that it promises a new and most profitable industry for the south, where ie will grow as luxuriantly as lucerne. This process is now employed on the ramie plantations in Mexico, and it is interesting to note the progess that has been made.

President Diaz, in a speech recently delivered to the Mexican congress, referred to the ramie experiment that has been going on at Montzorongo. He said that the sults obtained by the Mexican Ramie Company seemed to be entirely satisfactory, for in some of the regions owned by the com-pany the ramie plant will yield as many as obmpany has various machines in its ion for the decortication of the fiber, saident Dias says that the apparatus rocesses by Mr. Forbes, by their incesses by Mr. Forces, by seen incess and economy in the production re, will assure considerable profits to ganizers of the Mexican Ramie Command he adds that Mr. Forces will soon late a still more economical method of compete with the best known products.

If our southern farmers are wise enout to take time by the forelock, they will an at once on the cultivation of the ran plant. There is no doubt whatever abo the success of the Forbes process.

Good Roads and Bad.

A correspondent of The Eatonton Messenger, taking as his text the statement that Whitfield county proposes to ask the legis-lature for authority to issue bonds for the purpose of macadamizing the public roads, writes a most interesting article on the subject of road improvement. It seems to us that such unanswerable arguments as this correspondent employs ought to have weight with those who make up the public spirit and public sentiment of Putnam Putnam has always been one of the most progressive counties in the state, and there is no more important or more profitable en-terprise in which it could engage than the building of a system of permanent roadways. The correspondent of The Messenger has

The correspondent of The Measenger has this to say:

Of course any step forward will be opposed by a certain class of men, the fellows who do not propose to do anything for posterity because posterity hasn't done anything for them. But there are enough live men in Putnam county to sit on and "sqush" out such opposition, and when it is shown to them that it will pay to invest in a plan which will give them good roads, they will take stock in it and give it hearty support.

It would be no costly or laborious job to macadamize Futnam's roads. Nature has furnished the material in prodigal abundance and placed it right on top of the ground where it can be had for the plucking. A steam crusher and a few hands and teams kept constantly at work under an expert road builder would not call for a heavy outlay. Their costs would soon be overmatched in the saving to the teams and wagons of the farmers, especially in the winter months. The steep hills could be speedily cut off and the dist filled in the hollows; the ditches and culverts could be made to do proper service, and the day of deep and dangerous mudholes would be at an end.

The present system of road-working is a farce and imposition. It has been tried and found wanting, and it is time for a change. There is scarcely a road overseer who is "up" sufficiently, in road-building to make a decent squirrel path to a spring. The idea of a few hands rushing over a badly worn and washed five miles of road in a day or two, twice, sometimes only once, a year is proposterous. But that is the way Putnam's roads are mangled under the present system.

As a matter of fact, the present system of

As a matter of fact, the present system of working the roads is no system at all. It is the outcome of carelessness and indifference, and consists of digging gullies on each side of the road and obstructing the driveway by heaping upon it the mud, stones and debris scooped out of the ditches. The roads would fare a great deal better if the present system were abolished altogether, for such money as is spent under its operations is worse than wasted.

We are inclined to believe that there has been a great change in public opinion in re-gard to the necessity of better public roads, but it is idle to expect it to take shape rapidly. Great reforms are not organized and carried out in a day. The permanent improvement of the public roads involves the expenditure of a good deal of money, and this money must be raised by means of taxation in some shape or other-a fact that touches the public on its funny bone. Nevertheless, the more the people—espe-cially the farmers—can be induced to study and reflect on this subject, the clearer will be their knowledge that this expenditure of money is in the nature of the most profit-able investment that any civilized community can make. This fact is capable of demonstration in a manner so simple that a little child can understand it. For instance, there is not a farmer in Georgia but knows that in one week one team and a driver can haul more produce to market on a macadamfized road during bad weather than two teams and two drivers on the roads as they now exist in Georgia. On a majority of the roads three teams are required to do the work of one. Any farmer can thus figure out for himself the actual losses which he annually sustains on account of bad or impassable roads. We have said nething of the wear and tear to stock and vehicles, nor have we ventured to enumerate the values that would be added to farm property as the given an idea of the actual loss that is in curred—the loss that comes directly out of the farmers' pockets. Boy Confederates

The Richmond Dispatch is publishing a series of letters about the boy soldiers of the confederacy, with the design of ascertaining, if possible, who was the youngest soldier in the confederate army.

Many of the letters give the names of boys who at the age of fifteen took up arms and fought through the whole war. The youngest on record up to date is an unenlisted bey named Penn. Young Penn was from New Orleans. During the war he was visiting a relative on the Chickahominy, and Gen-eral J. E. B. Stuart carried him to camp. At the battle of Gaines's Mill Major W. Roy Mason found the little fellow in a pine thicket, with a dead soldier's musket, firing away vigorously at the federals. Of course, the officer at once sent the boy to a place of

As young Penn was not in the army he cannot be put forward as the youngest confederate, but his case illustrates the spirit of southern boys during the early sixtles.

Our boy soldiers made a splendid record Some of them, wearing the scars of battle on their still youthful faces, are among the leaders of the new south today. As a rule, the confederate veteran is equal to any duty or emergency, and is as energetic in peace

Work and Wages.

Tabulated reports from thirty-eight cities printed in The Age of Steel furnish some very interesting figures concerning work and wages.

According to these statistics, brick maare paid 21 cents an hour in Atlanta, and 49 cents in St. Louis. In Lexington, Virginia, a carpenter is paid 18 cents an hour, and 30 cents in New York. In Vicksburg a plumber receives 22; cents an hour, and 40 cents in Chicago. Painters in New Orleans get. 22† cents an hour, in Kansas City 51 cents, in Memphis 35 cents, in New York 52 cents. A roofer in Atlanta carns 19 cents an hour, in Santa Fe 38 cents, in New York 34 cents, in Brooklyn 87 cents.

Atlanta pays unskilled or comm Atlanta pays unskilled or common labor 7; cents an hour, while Galveston pays 20 cents. Southern section hands on railroads are paid in the summer 90 cents a day. At the coal mines the day men are paid 12; to 15 cents an hour. But in the Jellico coal district of Kentucky the following is the scale of wages: Drum men, $1.75 a day; men under the tip house, $1.50; head track-driyers, $2; trappers, 60 to 75 cents a day; blacksmith, $2.50; pick sharpener, $2.25; tracklayers, $2.20; assistant tracklayers, $1.75; oiler, 50 to 75 cents; coupler, $1.25; tippers, $1.50; trimmers, $1.50; furnace man, $1.50. In other Kentucky coal districts wages are ten per cent less.

The best organized trades get the highest wages in New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, St. Louis, Galveston and San Franciso.

Masons get the highest wages in St. Louis; carpenters in New York; painters in San Francisco; plumbers in Chicago; roofers in Santa Fe, and unskilled laborers in Gal-

A glance at these figures will sugges many difficulties in the way of securing uniformity in wages. Supply and demand, transportation, markets and many other things influence prices. Trades unions and combinations cannot possibly make wages in localities overstocked with cheap labor equal the wages of localities where there is not enough labor to supply the demand.

In a country as vast as ours, so diversified in its conditions, it is not likely that there will ever be uniformity in wages.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE NASHVILLE AMERICAN urges Thomas Nelson Page to undertake the work of writing a southern history. Mr. Page is one of the best equipped writers in the south, and a history from his pen would doubtless be a work of permanent interest and value.

POINTS FROM THE PRESS.

Editor McCutcheon has been compelled to employ an assistant on The Hogansville Hustler. And yet his friends predicted that he could run a farm, a real estate agency and two live newspapers on the faith that is in him. The Tifton Gazette, formerly The Berries County Pioneer, is certainly a very neat and well edited paper. It appears to be printed from new type, and has a new and attractive heading.

The Tifton Gazette wants to know what his become of the committee on legislation appointed by the Georgia Weekly Press Association, and in this connection says:

The demand for the publication of the laws passed by the legislature is more urgent as the necessity for a general knowledge of the laws becomes more apparent. Ninety-nine one-hundredths of the people are ignorant of the laws because the state has furnished them no adaquate means of knowing what they are. Many a man has been punished in Georgia for the violation of laws of which he had no knowledge and for which lack of knowledge the state is responsible. This committee should make its strongers efforts at the July session in this behalf—the people are ready for it and legislators are ripe for it. The general enactments of the legislature should be published in the county papers of the various counties, and local laws in the papers nearest the locality affected.

"The people of all Georgia, and almost all the south, are for Crisp for speaker," said Hon. Of course, that would not be expected to influence the votes of congressmen, but it would show that his own state is solidly, unanimously for him, outside organs of indifference?

Perhaps a degree of both, for it is true that not one man in every fifty in Atlanta can tell you the names of the president, vice president and cabinet officers of the United States government. I tried the experiment yesterday of asking every man whose profession or position was such that he should know. The majority were either lawyers, state officials, including legislators men known to have political aspirations, and business men. And but three could be found who named them. One was a state official; the other two lawyers, both holding what are termed political offices.

It was not the Cary resolution that was adopted at the Methodist ministers' meeting, after all. The resolution, as it passed, was a substitute in troduced by Rev. T. T. "There's going to be any amount of fun," said he, "when the legislature attempts to redistrict the state. There are no less than two congressional aspirants in every county, and each one of these expects to be addressing 'Mr. Speaker' before the state is again redistricted. Thus you see how many men there are who have plans as to what counties should compose each district. As to the eighth, I have no personal interest, but our people don't want many changes. If we are to use any of the western counties, as has been proposed—and I suppose we must—then our people will be well satisfied to ahnex Taliaferro and Lincoln. In other words, the district should be Lincoln. In other words, the district should be made up from the Savannah river as a base. CEORGIA GOSSIP.

The sermon of Rev. Mr. Vaughn, of Macon, preached at Centenary church, in that city, on Sunday last, has moved The Macon News to a spirited but conteous reply. Mr. Vaughn's remarks were chiefly directed against the Sunday newspapers and the people who read them. The Construction came in for a lecture, but our Macon contemporary tells Brother Vauchn that Macon contemporary tells Brother Vaughn that he made a great mistake, and proves to him that the people must and will have the news. They can't do without their CONSTITUTION.

An Albany official who has had considerable experience with criminals, both white and black, says that to lock a negro up establishes a feeling of kindness and friendship in his breast for the officer that arrests him that makes him eyer afterwark the officer's friend. As a rule there is less of the spirit of vindictiveness and spite in the negro's composition than any other race. If you arrest a white man he will, however fair-minded he may be, entertain a spiteful feeling against you, but a negro becomes more respectful and polite than ever, and really feels kindly toward you for that very reason. He says that every negro whom he has arrested and jailed has shown him marked respect afterwards—a respect which he does not believe is induced by fear, but by the spirit of kindness mentioned. This is certainly a curious phase of negro character, and is worthy of note. An Albany official who has had considerable ex

He thinks he will have water enough for family use, and for the printing office, and have water enough tor and for the printing office, for the stock, and some to spare for the stock of for the stock, and some to spare for irrigating purposes, in case of dry weather. We think without a change, and that very soon, that water will be an object in the farming department of our country. Uncle Billy is also talking about buying a wind mill for water-raising pur-poses. His brother, John, seems to think there is no necessity for Uncle Billy to buy a windmill, as be has been running one for quite a number of years, and still it does not seem to be much worse of wear."

"Because," replied Mr. Spalding, "I'm not in the developing work."

No Electricity on Peachtree.
"I move," said Mr. King, "that we do not agree to that part of the report which seeks to put electricity on Peachtree."

Colonel P. L. Mynatt made a warm argument in support of Mr. King's motion.
"I desire to put my motion this way," said Mr. King. "To keep double tracks and electricity off that street. My friend Spalding makes an able argument for the double tracks, but he lives out of town and doesn't pay any taxes."

"I beg pardon," said Mr. Spalding, "I do

"Glad to know it," replied Mr. King.
Mr. Woodward followed Mr. King, making an earnest appeal for the wishes of the Peachtree residents.

for it.

"I'm for double electric tracks," said Mr. Turner, "but if the good people on that street don't want that I shall vote against it, and vote to give them what they do want."

"Mr. Turner's speech is just my position," said Mr. Rice.

Mr. Hulsey was only more positive than Mr. Middlebrooks in demanding the double track electric system.

Mr. Holbrook asserted that she would stand by the Peachtree people in what they wanted. Mr. Hendrix spoke at length favoring the double-track electric system.

Mr. Hutchison took a position reverse to that of Mr. Hendrix.

Mr. Reinhardt was positive and urgent in his appeal for the double-track electric system on Peachtree.

Mr. Shropshire was against what Mr. Reinhardt wanted.

"This double-tracking of Peachtree," said Mr. Sawtelf, "has gone into verse among school children. They are all singing:

On the petition of Joel Hurt and A. A. Glasier, representing the Atlanta Street Railroad Company, the West End and Atlanta Railroad Company, the West End and Atlanta Railroad Company, the Fullon County Street Railroad Company and the Atlanta and Edgewood Street Railroad Company and the Atlanta and Edgewood Street Railroad Company, your committee report:

1. Favorably, that authority and consent be given to the Atlanta Street Railroad Company to lay and maintain double tracks along Peachtree street, from Marietta to West Peachtree street, and also to equip and operate said tracks with the overhead electric system.

2. Favorably, that authority and consent be given to the Atlanta Street Railroad Company to be and maintain double tracks on Marietta street from and across Peachtree street and to connect with the Decatur street line to the city limits, and to equip and operate the same with the overhead electric system.

3. Favorably, that authority and consent be given to the Atlanta Street Railway Company to equip and operate with said electric system the Decatur street line of said company from and across Peachtree street to its present terminus, and to double-track said street within twelve months, and to operate the same with the overhead electric system.

4. Favorably, that authority and consent be delectric system. Peachtree, Peachtree, don't you cry, You'll git 'lectricity bye and bye. "However, if the people dont't want it I'll vote against it."

The section touching Peachtree was lost.

The second section was read.

The second section was read.

Mr. Woodward wanted to postpone the consideration of the remainder of the report, so that a more thorough investigation could be made.

Mr. Reinhardt opposed any postponement.
Section 2, double-tracking Marietta street, was adopted.

Section 3, Decatur street, was read.

When Work Begins.

"There's nothing there," said Mr. Woodward, "about the time to begin work."

"I have an amendment here," said Mr. King, "touching that."

The amendment read:
Work in good faith shall be actually commenced within three months from date of adoption of the report on each of the lines of street railroad covered by this grant, and the same shall be finished in twelve months from this date. The grant as to any line shall stand forfeited as to that line if such work is not commenced thereon or completed within the time indicated.

The Decatur Line.

The Whitehall clause was read and action n it was postponed.

Mr. Woodward objected to it.

The council then declined to adopt the report as a whole and laid the entire matter, with several unread amendments, on the table, to be taken up at the next meeting.

Mr. Hurt and his associates, though disappointed over the result of the meeting, are not disposed to give up.

They yet hope to succeed.

Mr. Hurt was seen after the council adjourned last night and was asked:

"What will the consolidated company do in regard to Peachtree street—abandon it?"

"By no means. We will operate this line with horses until the people on that street become convinced that the electric cars are not dangerous—that they are preferable to horse cars. We want it distinctly understood that we have been willing since the filing of the petition to abide by the wishes of the patition to abide by the wishes of the citizens on the street. I promised Mr. Ragan we would not canvass the street at all, which

15. The authority and consent given to said street failroad companies, respectively, is given with the understanding that the same may be enjoyed by such corporation or persons as shall acquire the property and franchise of said companies or any "You petitioned for the right?"
"Certainly we did. But this was done because we expected to equip the street as the proper thing to do for the city. We really pect electric cars. If they did not, they should have expressed themselves before the cry for rapid transit arose on all sides. We are perfectly satisfied with the present dis-position of the matter, but we hope that no obstructions will be placed in the way of furnishing rapid transit to other sections of others he has made since the petition was presented to council.

"As far as Peachtree is concerned," said he, "I desire to say that we don't want to urge any system on any street which is not wanted. We came here with that petition because Atlanta had been clamoring for rapid transitions. We asked for Peachtree from Marietta to West Peachtree—to lay double tracks and use electricity, and the committee aw proper to grant it all the way out the street. I had much rather you would leave it as the committee reports. But since the single track has been suggested we are willing to take it. However I, shink there are many reasons why the double track should be adopted. Financially we would prefer the single track."

the city."

"When will your company begin to put on double tracks and erect overhead lines?"

"I am unable to say. Today's action of the council is incomplete, several matters being laid upon the table and nothing definitely decided. The sections of the committee's report acted upon were only adopted provisionally. The question which affects us the most—the right to double track and extend our lines without being obligated to pay for paving an amount not required by other cities and which would cripple the enterprise—was postponed until the next meeting. Until this postponed until the next meeting. Until this and other restrictions are finally disposed of by the council, we shall not be in a position to angle track."

Mr. Hurt discussed the paving question and asserted that by the city attorney's decision the tompany could not be made to pay for it. He han referred to the bridge building clause in the appear and strongly opposed it. ide whether it it is best to do anything

This delegation will be presented and will use every effort to induce the convention to hold its next session here.

The competition will be very great, especially on the part of San Francisco, where everything is done on a great scale. Hon, Alexander Montgomery, who has recently contributed $250,000 to the Presbyterian university in California, says he will spend $20,000 rather than not have the Scotch-Irish Society meet there. He proposes to charter a train to take the whole body from St. Louis or some other central point to San Francisco, and as the society has met already in Tennessee and Pennsylvania, and meets this year in Kentucky, the west will make a strong effort for the next meeting.

were to appear will be disappointed in their expectations of witnessing a rare treat of histrionic ability.

The treasurer of the company has announced that Mr. Thornton has been taken suddenly ill and that he will not be able to fulfill his contract. It is said that Scott is a very sick manthat the trying scenes which he has recently passed through before the footlights have seriously impaired his health, necessitating his retirement from the stage for some time to come, if not permanently. If such should be the case, Atlanta will lose the brightest star that ever illuminated the firmament, and one on whom Atlantians confidentally expected to see the mantle of Booth and Barrett fall.

The advance man was recalled by wire yesterday, and he is expected to reach the city some time today. It may be that his persuasive eloquence can influence Mr. Thornton to hot retire for good.

Mr. Stockton Axson is in the city for the purpose of introducing into the south the American edition of The Review of Reviews. Two years ago Mr. W. E. Stead started this magazine in England, announcing its birth with the seeming paradox that there are already too many magazines, and, therefore, another is necessary. There are so many magazines, and a great part of their contents is so gold that the distelligent man desirous of keeping in touthwellather course of current literature becomes bewildered, not knowing where to choose. The Review of Reviews comes to his assistance and enables him to read them all by giving him a brief, but vivid, summary and characterization of all the periodicals, English and foreign. The idea has taken so well in England that in two years The Review of Reviews has secured a circulation of 200,000, which is far greater than that of any other English magazine.

greater than that of any other English magazine.

Dr. Albert Shaw, so favorably known in this country and abroad by his work in economies, has taken charge of the American edition, and hopes to so adapt it to American reading that in a short time it will be as widely read as its English, parent.

Besides its work of reviewing, there is much else in this magazine that is admirable. Its leading running article on the "Progress of the World," gives as clear an idea of the history of the months as could be obtained from volumes elsewhere, furnishing as it does a complete summary of all the current events in politics, tatters and eart. GAMMON SEMINARY.

THE ANNUAL BERRCIARS OF THE ALUMNI HELD LAST NIGHT.

Large Audience Present to ness the Affair at the Butler Street Methodist Church.

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association of Gammon Theological seminary occurred at the Butler street Methodist Episcopal church last evening.

The address of welcome was delivered by Rev. R. E. Hart, of the class of 1829, who has been the pastor of this church for some time.

He spoke in burning words against sin and wrong, and said that the times called for men who know the right and dare to do it.

He spoke further of the evils that are creeping into the churches, such as card-playing, beer-drinking and the prevalent sins of that kind, which are becoming all too common.

He spoke of truth, purity and righteoumess, though they may stand alone in the great sea of human wickedness.

At the close he extended a welcome to the alumni who have been trained by faithful professors and given every opportunity of learning the true way to God. Of those who have gone forth to do battle for the cause of human good, he said "God-speed," and may their usefulness be equaled by their zeal in this glorious cause.

Rev. J. W. Walker, pastor at Fort Gaines, read an original poem on "The Man of God," which was beautifully composed, setting forth the character and duties of the true preacher.

Professor J. D. Chavits then delivered the annual address. His theme was "The Gospel, the World's only Civilizing and Elevating Agency."

He went on to say that the uplifting of man

Agency."

He went on to say that the uplifting of man means more than physical well-being and social ameliorization. Man's noblest faculties must be touched and his soul must be renewed must be touched and his soul must be renewed by divine power.

The gospel uplifts and refines because it is the truth. Greek and Roman writers were never able to elevate man above himself and his sins. But the gospel of Christ responds to the deepest wants of man—morally, socially and intellectually. It teaches that the rights of all men—the poor and the weak, as well as the strong and the rich—should be regarded. Neither law nor any other force will save men from crueity and injustice to their fellows.

The gospel alone can bring peace and safety to all mankind. Give the negro strength, morals and the gospel—we must look to that influence to bring fair dealing and justice between white and black, through a pure and intelligent ministry.

tween white and black, through a pure and intelligent ministry.

Professor Thirkield was then called on and spoke briefly of the noble record of the students, numbering nearly fifty, that have been sent out of the seminary during the last eight years on missions of good and usefulness.

The meeting was very interesting, and there, was a large audience present.

The closing exercises will occur today.

Yesterday morning "Uncle" Arnold met with a group of colored brethren and proceeded to tell how mean and low their actions were and how they would be tormented for them if they did not reform. As is the custom his feelings, and soon he was crying in a loud tone and vociferous language to his hearers about their going to hell.

This he carried on so far as to be class under the head of disorderly conduct, and a patrolman had him carried to the station house on this charge.

The parson had his saddlebags, an old um brella and a package tled up in a red bandana, and with these was carried to the police staand with these was carried to the police sta-tion, where all city evil-doess are landed. "Oh God," cried he, "I is yo' po' ole sarvant, as you knows. I is bin arristed, an' as you knows for nothin'. I has bin sarvin' you for fity-five years an' you knows I has tried to do my duty. I now ax you to hab me turned loose, an' to save all these po' sinners. Please hab me let loose today, an' for Jesus sake let it be right soon."

After getting up from his knees the old man exhorted the prisoners to do better, and succeeded in creating quite a commotion among them. He "lined" out a hymn and began singing one of those old negro long-meter songs. The others caught the air and followed. For an hour or two this was carried on, and those around the station house were attracted inside. When the air was finished the old man began to preach, but was cut short by the kesper entering and telling him he could go.

The old darky said not a word to the officer until he lifted up his eyes towards the heavens and uttered a prayer, thanking God that He had answered his prayer so soon.

A collection was made up for him when released, and he went on his way rejoicing.

Grimm.

Gainerin, Ga., May 12.—[Special.]—C. O. Knox, the man arrested in Chattanooga for drawing money on obecks on a Griffin bank, evidently started out with the idea of getting a sing sum cheaply. On May 5th, just before closing, Cashier R. H. Drake, of the Savings bank, received the following telegram:

Griffin: Sent $500 New York draft; place to my credit.

Mr. Drake says he knew nothing of Knox, and was a little surprised when he received the telegram. No New York exchange came to be placed to Mr. Knox's credit, but some checks payable to Atlanta parties did come with C. A. Knox's signature. Dr. T. E. Drewry, to whom Knox refers as indebted to him, was seen by Thu Construturow and said: "I am due Knox $19.25, but he said nothing to me about placing it in bank to his credit. If he had, the amount was insufficient to even one of the checks he is said to have given. So far as my being due him more money next Saturday is concerned, I will not unless he returns and earns it. I pay him when he works, not when he is absent." While here, from the best information to hand, Knox demeaned himself in a business-like and gentlemanly manner.

The Treasurer's Circular Regarding Subsidiary Coin.

Washington, May 12.—Some misapprehension seems to exist respecting the effect of the circular issued by Treasurer Nebeker on May 1st, offering to send free of cost of transportation amounts of the subsidiary silver coin in exchange for other money. In consequence of this, the following supplementary circular was today issued from the treasurer's office: "The notice of May 1st does not change the existing regulations in regard to obtaining fractional silver coin except to limit the deposit therefor to $200 instead of $500, and banks in subtreasury cities must obtain their supply from the subtreasury therein as heretofore, while interior banks may forward to the subtreasury their check on their correspondent in such subtreasury cities, and the assistant treasurer will collect such check and forward the silver therefor as heretofore. The supply of dimes is limited, but this office will endeavor to keep each subtreasury supplied, but in case such supply is temporarily exhausted applicants must await further supply or be willing to take 5 cent nickels in their stead."

BUSSELL TELLS THE STORY Of How He Was Knocked Down

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 12,-Young Russell, cashier of the Georgia Pacific railroad, who was knocked senseless by robbers last night, recovered consciousness this morning. He says he stepped to a side room to wash his hands, and when he returned four masked men contronted him. They demanded money, men confronted him. They demanded money, and he showed resistance, when one of them promptly knocked him down and kicked him. They then took $350 in cash from the drawer, tried to tie him to the safe, but were in too great a hurry to do it. Having thrown some oil around the room they set fire to the papers and left. Russell will recover. The loss on the building and contents is about $15,000. There is no clue to the robbers.

ROANOKE, Va., May 12 .- Several years ago E. E. Rodebaugh came to this city from Pennsylvania. He was for some time leader Pennsylvania. He was for some time leader of the choir of one of the prominent churches of the city, went into good society, and was married about a year ago to Miss Martin, a lady of good family. It became whispered around not long ago that Rodebaughs was married before he came here, whereupon he produced a divorce granted by the probate court of Utah separating him and his former wife, whom he married in Pennsylvania. A letter received here from the clerk of the court in which the divorce purports to have been granted, states that no such parties have ever applied for divorce there. The affair has created a sensation.

THE DEATH PENALTY.

Three Murderers Receive Sentence of the Court.

Place HOGE CLARK'S EXHAUSTIVE REVIEW.

Me Tells the Story of the Crimes-How th Sentences Were Received-Dodd Gets Five Years,

Your men, young, strong, robust and in In shackles, marched from Fulton county all to Fulton county courthouse.

Three of the four were murderers, but one of them was not, in the eyes of the law, guilty of the crime that implies the death

They were prepared for the ordeal, an several thousand people were prepared to witness the sad scene.

The prisoners were carried to the super for court room, and taken to the prisoners room, where the shackles were taken off. It is one of the provisions in the old statutory law that a felon must not be manacled when sentence is passed upon

It was a weird and uncanny scene. The four prisoners had just been given an airing in the bright May sunshine, and as they entered the courtroom it took them some time to accustom themselves to the faces around them.

The courtroom was crowded. And with an anxious and curious crowd-which was

The condemned men had many friends present, but there were in that assemblage en men who came through curiosity alone to one who had any other interest in the cenes that were to follow.

Charlie Ozburn came in first. He looked pale and haggard. There was an inch of beard on the pallid face, which bore an expression of listlessness and entire uncon-

THE JUEGE BEGINS.

"Let there be order in court," began the judge. "I have this morning to perform the most difficult and embarrassing duty that I have ever performed in a judicial career of seventeen years," he continued. "I have to sentence four men for homicide, and to pass upon three of them the death penalty. In our county, although there have been many homicides within the last fifteen years, many what I may call murders, and the defendants found guilty, yet the verdicts have always been followed with a recommendation to imprisonment for life in the penitentiary. But murders have followed each other so fast that the juries have come to the conclusion that it is absolutely necessary to the protection of human life and society in general that the extreme penalty must be tried to see if it will not lessen these crimes. And while it may not stop the commission of murder, and perhaps never will as long as human nature is as it is, it will lessen the number of crimes of this character.

BIRMINGHAM'S WAY. "I have only to refer to the city of Birmingham, a thriving and prosperous town like our own city, where many people from different parts of the earth have gathered, and where murders have been committed, and following horrify, the community. But the tide turned there, and they found that they must deal with such characters in a very decided and severe way, to-wit, that they must pay the penalty of death for their murders; and since then there has been a lull there; there has been but one homicide committed within the city of any equence as I remember within twelve

"We here seem to have taken up when Birmingham left off. At this term of the court there were not less than six true bills for murder upon the docket. Five of them were tried, and one has been postponed until June. In reference to all these five that have been tried, the jury has nobly, in my judgement, done its duty, and found verdicts that the evidence required under the law. Three were found guilty of murder abolutely, and one of them with a recommendation, one found guilty of voluntary man-slaughter, and one found guilty of involuntary manslaughter. These were all, in my judgment, the legitimate outcome of the vidence, applying the law to the evidence. SIX MURDERS!

"I said there were six, and this does not ac ount for the case of Ozburn, who was already convicted at the previous term, and whose case was suspended by an application for a new trial to the supreme court. That has passed away; that ceased to exist with the supersedeas in that case, and now it remains to re-sentence him, and to add his case to the six that are already on the docket. Just think of six murders! Six victims sent untimely into eternity, and from what I read in the papers this morning, possibly now there is another victim to some man's malice, heartlessness and cruelty. All that a community can do, "all that judges and juries can do under these circumstances is to do their duty and these circumstances, is to do their duty and let the consequences be what they may. If the murders continue and the duty is not performed, those whose duty it is to perform the duty are to blame. But if they perform their duty, then they are not to blame, and their consciences are clear. But a strict and rigid performance of their duty must at once have this effect, as in all time it has had its effect, towit: It is a just must have to the clear founded in just punishment upon the slayer, founded in the revelation of God, and in the experience and wisdom of man! More than this, it operates to deter others from the commission of the same offense. "So, as I said," continued Judge Clark, "I "So, as I said," continued Judge Clark, "I proceed to the performance of this serious and solemn and disagreeable duty. In doing so, I feel that it is the law of it that is doing it, that I am only the instrument and mouthpiece of the law, and in that law is represented the whole community. I am the representative in my place of every man, woman and child in the county, without regard to see or previous condition of servitude, as it is id. I speak as though I was not myself. I seek as though I was not known. I speak as hough I wore inanimate, a mere status that possesses the power to declare the law of the land and the will of the people."

Charley Osburn's Case.

"In reference to the sentence of Charles M. Ozburn," continued the court—
The prisoner scarcely raised his head. He sat perfectly indifferent, looking more after the condition of his finger nails than the index.

With reference to the case of Ozburn," "With reference to the case of Ozburn," continued the judge, "I expressed myself fully when I first sentenced him. The sentence has been affirmed by our highest judicial tribunal, and I see no reason to change my judgment thereon; I deeply regret—I am pained—that it is so. I sympathize with him, and more especially do I sympathize with his wife; and my sympathy goes out to his numerous brothers and cousins, and all the family in this, his and their day of calamity. But what can I do? What can we do? The law must be executed without regard to person. If it is be executed without regard to person. If it is not, we are turned over to anarchy, and all government and society are failures. Therefore, it only remains for me to resentence Mr. Ozburn. I sentenced him to execution on the 9th day of January last. That is past, and now some day in the future has to be set. And I will say to him that it is best for him to make up his mind for the worst, that the sentence will be executed, and to govern himself accordingly; and most especially in regard to his spiritua condition. I wish that I were capable of givng him comfort and consolation on this point but 1 am not. But there are good men and women, especially good clergymen, who will take him and comfort bim in this his extremity. Therefore, I say—"

THE FORMAL SENTENCE.

And the judge read the following formal

The State vs. Charles M. Ozburn. Conviction for murder, without recommendation.
Whereas, at the fall term of this court for the year 1890, to wit: On the 15th day of November, 1890, the defendant was sentenced to be executed in private on Friday, the 9th day of January, 1891; and

Whereas, said execution was not carried into effect because of a legal supersedeas to said sentence, which is now at an end, as the minutes of the court will show, and which makes the necessary to resentence said defendant. It is, therefore, ordered that the time for said execution shall be Friday, the 26th day of June next, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., and to be done in the manner prescribed in said order of the 15th of November, which in every respect is to be conformed to, including the safekeeping of defendant from now until then, and as if it were here related.

"Judge S. C. Presiding."

To Be Hung in Public. As cool and deliberate as the decrees of fate, Judge Clark continued, and began to talk of George Wahington's case. The only evidence of emotion that the pris oner showed was a smile, whether of acquiescence or contempt, will never be known.

He sat perfectly calm and collected as the sentence was being passed upon him, and only smiled when Judge Clark mentioned that the execution would take place in pub-

"The next case," began Judge Clark, "is that of George Washington, a man whom I am sorry to say bears the name of the father of his country; the greatest character viewed from every point that I know of in history.

"George Washington (that is, kthis defendant) did from little or no provocation-in fact none appeared from the evidence on the trial, but there was a shadowy suspicion that, previously to that time, he and this man had had a little difference; and, as it appeared, about (as is so often the case) a woman. He met him talking with several, and he just steppe across the street, across a narrow street in twenty or thirty paces, deliberately aimed his Winchester at him, and the man fell dead in his tracks-pure, unadulterated murder, and murder in its worst form by assassination "I can say nothing to George except that this stamps him as a man with a very bad heart, and who, in order to be forgiven for his sins, has to repent, repent sincerely, and re-pent much. And I would advise him to seek consolation from spiritual sources, and when he comes to die, he may have a hope of

"It will be perceived from my sentence in his case, and my sentence in the other, that I sentence them to be executed publicly. When Ozburn was convicted, he was the only one convicted, and I sentenced him, in view of that, and in regard to his very respectable family connection, to be executed privately; but at the same time, I said this crime was so growing in our community, that a public example must be made, that the people would know by their own sight that men had paid the death penalty for their crimes. You execute a man privately and it is strange, but it is true, that it gets out into the community, that perhaps there was some the community, that perhaps there was some trick about it, and that the man was spirited away, and that he was not executed.

"I remember a case where there would be an execution in this county. The case of Malone, who committed suicide in jail; and instantly, there followed upon that an undercurrent of opinion in the community that perhaps Malone had not killed himself, but was spirited away, and that the coffin that was haps Malone had not killed himself, but was spirited away, and that the coffin that was moved out to his place of burial did not contain his body, but contained some material of equal weight. I want it to be known that death is the penalty for murder, and I want the people of all classes and shades to know it, and to know that it has followed on murder. Then, I have done my duty. They have known it, and if they do not heed it, it is their own fault. But to a certain extent they will heed it, especially amongst our colored fellowcitizens, who are credulous and superstitious to a greater or less extent. As to the masses of them, you have to act upon their sensibilities rather than upon their judgment or their ideas. You have to act upon senses to make them understand and know; they have to see and feel. Then this is my sensibilities rather than upon their judgment or their ideas. You have to act upon senses to make them understand and know; they have to see and feel. Then this is my order in this case:

THE OFFICIAL ORDER.

The State vs. George Washington. Conviction for murder, without recommendation.

Whereas, it is ordered and adjudged by the court that the prisoner, George Washington shall remain in the common jail of Fulton county, and there be securely kept, as it it is customary to keep prisoners under the sentence of death, until Friday, the 3d day of July next, on which day, between the honrs of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., he shall be hanged on the gallows by the neck until he is dead. The execution of this sentence shall take place in public, at such place as the high sheriff of said county whall select; and it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, if required by said sheriff, to provide the the place for the said execution, not to exceed two miles in a straight line from the county jail of said county, whether it be within or without the corporate limits of the city of Atlanta. It shall be the duty of the said sheriff to provide such clergyman or clergymen as the prisoner may desire, or, in failure to select by the prisoner, then the sheriff to appoint one or more to perform such religious services as may be appropriate on such occasions. He shall also secure the services of the county physician, who shall be present to determine when death intervenes; and, if from any cause said physician does not attend, then he shall seloct some other physician.

After death the body of the prisoner shall be delivered to any of his family or friends calling therefor. The high sheriff is also hereby authorized to take such steps as he may think best to secure the execusion of this sentence, and to this end he is authorized and required to command the services of the Atlanta police and of any one or more of the volunteer military companies of Atlanta, of all to act as his lawful posse to enable him safely and securely to carry th

"It is a little strange," remarked a by-stander, "that he should be sentenced to die so I can get to ball for dinner," he is quoted as having said to one of the balliffs. He is pleased at the idea of a public hanging.

Underwood's Sad Face.

The only man who seemed to take the mat-ter to heart was Elisha A. Underwood. Underwood does not look at all like a vicious man. He is nearly handsome, as men go for good looks, and throughout the terrible ordeal he sat quiet and composed, but his eyes were ar away.

Perhaps, and no doubt, he was thinking of those loved ones among the north Georgia mountains, who were at that moment praying that he might escape the doom of the mur-derer.

His sad face was remarked by the crowd, and various comments were made ere Judge Clark began his sentence.

A FORMAL SENTENCE. "The next is the case of the state against Elisha A. Underwood," began the court after a pause of seconds that must have seemed like hours to the doomed man. "I feel, in pronouncing this sentence, that, in all probability, indeed, I may say as certain as anything human and earthly can be certain, he will not be executed at the time I designate; but, nevertheless, it is made my duty to pass the sentence, and I have to do it as though it were to be executed.

sentence, and I have to do it as though it were to be executed.

"This case makes a most lamentable one in every point of view you can take of it. Underwood is a father with a family of children, some of them small. The decersed, his victim, has five little ones, just like steps; and there are now two families, two wives and children in the deepest distress from this act. According to the evidence, there is no escape from its being a case of murder under the law. There was something in the case, in the evidence, which suggested that there might be something which was not proven, and you might imagine what that other something was from the other circumstances; but it would be something that could not alter the legal aspect of the case."

AN INTERRUPTION HERE. At interruption here.

At this point Mr. W. C. Glenn, of counsel for the defense, rose to his feet. He called attention to the statement of the court that in all human probability the sentence of the court in this case would not be carried out, as a new trial has been moved, and if not granted by the lower court will be by the supreme court. Concluding, Mr. Glenn said: "And we appeal to all surrounding circumstances, that nothing ought to be done at present in this matter, except the formal passing ent in this matter, except the formal passing of the santence."

"I do not see the utility of the interruption," rejoined Judge Clark, "because that is all that I shall do, all that I have done, or all that I have expected to do."

Then he read the formal sentence. It was worded in exactly the same language as the sentence in the Washington case, the only difference being in the date.

Underwood's sentence fixes the time for his hanging at "Friday, the 10th of July next, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m."

AN INVOCATION.

AN INVOCATION. In concluding the last sentence Judge Clark took another sip from the glass of water in front of him, and casting a wistful look toward iront of him, and casting a wistful look toward the criminals, he said:

"Now, that concludes my painful duty, and all I have to say, in conclusion, in respect to these three defendants is, that if these three sentences shall be executed, and if they shall hang by the neck until they are dead, may the Lord have mercy upon their souls."

Dodd Gets Off Light. Fayette Dodd got off light.

That was the opinion of those present. Most people thought that he would get the full extent of the law, but they were mistaken in their presumptions. On this case Judge Clark spoke at some

On this case Judge Clark spoke at some length.

"Fayette Dodd, who has been found guilty of voluntary manslaughter," he began. "That was a correct verdict. Possibly some juries might have felt justified in finding a verdict of acquittal. Dodd was serving in a beer saloon in the place of the proprietor, who was too sick to attend to his business. Chosewood, the decessed, came in with a minor and demanded a quart of beer and glasses for two. Dodd put down a glass only for one, and explained to Chosewood that he was not authorized to sell beer to minors. That offended plained to Chosewood that he was not authorized to sell beer to minors. That offended Chosewood, and he approached Dodd, who by this time was behind the counter, with the beer in his hand, and, in a fit of anger, threw it upon his bosom and into his face. That, in my judgment, was an insult that was calculated to arouse the nessions of a reasonable man and was set.

insuit that was calculated to arouse the passions of a reasonable man, and was sufficient to have reduced the crime from murder to voluntary manslaughter. He also took up at the same time in his other hand a pint vinegar bottle half filled with vinegar in a threatening attitude. Of course the taking it up itself was a threat to strike. The witnesses here differ as to whether he had raised the vinegar bottle and was in a striking attitude or not. bottle and was in a striking attitude or not. And right at that point of time (whether he had the vinegar bottle up or not) Dodd shot. Now, Dodd was conforming to the law when he was not giving beer to a minor, and Chosewood had no right—no legal right—to take where the conforming to the law when he was not giving beer to a minor, and Chosewood had no right—no legal right—to take where we want to the conformation. to take umbrage at it. Then that is one point that I consider in his favor, as we'll as the point that he shot under the circumstances he did.

FIVE YEARS A LONG TIME. "In the punishment of this class of crimes, the law gives to the court a very wide margin and alvery extensive discretion, and limits the time to not less than one, nor more than twenty years. It was done so that the court might in its respect for the infirmity of human nature, and all the peculiar circumstances of the case, give such approximant.

years. It was done so that the court might in its respect for the infirmity of human nature, and all the peculiar circumstances of the case, give such punishment as he thinks proper under the circumstances, and so in this case I think the law will be satisfied by sentencing Dodd to a term of five years in the penitentiary. Five years, as contrasted with twenty, seems a short time, but five years to serve in the penitentiary is a long time. It, however, does not take much from the average of human life. When you send a man to the penitentiary from ten to twenty years, you may bid him farewell. In many cases he might as well be sent for life, because if he does not die there, he may contract disease, and is no man, physically, mentally or morally, afterward.

"Well, now, I take the liberty here to counsel the defendant as to the future. The five years will seem hard while it is going on, but after it is all over it will be like a parenthesis of a few words, a short sentence in a composition, and, if he lives to be an old man, it will look to him like a very small space of time when he looks back at the past. Then what?

"Dodd will live his five years, I hope, and then he will come out. The future is before him, and let him so conduct himself as to restore himself by the public confidence as he may. As I understand it, he has a good and devoted wife, and if he will take her counsel while in the penitentiary and when out, he will make a good citizen and never more be guilty of crime."

The judge then read the formal sentence t five year's imprisonment.

The Curious Crowd. The courthouse was cleared, the prisoners taken back to the prisoners' room, and the shackles placed on all except one.

That was Ozburn. He was so weak and emaciated that no sucl precautions were necessary.

Dodd, Underwood and Washington were brought down the steps, around which a great crowd had congregated. They were marched to the jail, guarded by deputy sheriffs, and a rabble followed them to the very gates of the prison.

Ozburn was taken out in charge of two court bailiffs, put on a passing dummy and enjoyed the privilege of a ride to the prison.

The rime Was Short.

The entire time of the sentencing occupied only thirty-five minutes.

"Did you ever have such an experience before!" Judge Clark was asked.

"No, never," as he passed his hand over his face. "I have sentenced one man at a time frequently, but never before have I been called upon to go through with such a number of cases. Ah, me?" and he turned away.

And thus ended a day of tragedy, such, as it is sincerely hoped, will never dawn again upon the fair city of Atlants. The Time Was Short.

MENSE TRACT OF LAND

Park Lots Sold by George Adair Yesterday Afternoon.

Baron Hirsch, the great philanthropist and canker, is extending his charities to the shores

Recently he donated $15,000,000 for the relief of his oppressed countrymen in Russia, de-siring to help those of his race to emigrate to ands of freedom who are unable to help them-

With the furtherance of this object in view he has just closed one of the largest real estate deals ever made by an Atlanta firm—the Atlanta Real Estate Exchange.

The land which he has purchased e a tract of 104,000 acres, situated on the plateau region of the Camberland mountains, and lying in the most fertile and desirable part of East Tennessee.

The price paid was $364,000 for the entire tract, or $3.50 per acre.

Baron Hirsch, through his New York agents, purchased it from the Atlanta Real Estate Exchange, Mr. L. M. Ward closing the sale there last week, where he went for that

As is well known, the ezar of All the Russias promulgated an edict some time ago, expelling the Jews from his dominions. Baron Hirsch, in order to mitigate the severity of the edict, and as an act of philanthropy, propose to colonize as many of the Jews on his recen purchase in Tennessee as are willing to take advantage of his offer.

Coal is abundant, and the land is also well dapted to agriculture. Each emigrant will be assigned a small farm, and given some suitble employment.

Oakland Park Auction Sale. One of the most important sales in Atanta suburban property for some time

One of the most important sales in Atlanta suburban property for some time took place yesterday afternoon.

It was the Oakland park auction of 114 lots. This sale opens up a portion of the suburbs of the city that heretofore have never been developed. Streets have been laid off and everything is in trim to make the park an ideal residence place. The property is just this side of McPherson barracks, on the new electric line, about one and a half miles from the city limits and three miles from the carshed.

A large crowd attended the sale yesterday, and the property sold for satisfactory prices.

Twenty-two lots of a uniform size, 50x190, were sold for a total of $7,665.

The following list gives the names of the purchasers and the prices paid:
Block B.—Lot No. 1, R. C. Harper, $270; No. 2, R. C. Harper, $230; No. 3, Goldsmith & Bishop, $260; No. 4, Goldsmith & Bishop, $260; No. 6, Goldsmith & Bishop, $265; No. 7, R. C. Harper, $275; No. 8, Gilbert, $295; No. 9 and 10, Goldsmith & Bishop, $310 each; No. 11, S. E. Bailey, $330; No. 12, Gilbert, $335; No. 13, Guimerin, $410.

Block E.—No. 1, T. L. Bishop, $355; No. 2, T. L. Bishop, $350; No. 3, George Richardson, $255; No. 4, R. C. Harper, $390; No. 5, M. M. Wells, $430; No. 6, R. C. Harper, $435; Nos. 7 and 8, J. J. Biggerstaff, $510 each; No. 9, S. E. Bailey, $535.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL.

A Pardon That Came Just Too Late-A New

Governor Northen returned yesterday to ind any amount of business, which had piled up during his absence. Among his letters was one from General

Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, and another from Ex-Governor Dick Hubbard, of Texas, both asking that, if it be possible, to commute Ozburn's sentence to life imprison-

There are scores of applications for pardons on his desk, but Governor Northen has taken a strong position against pardons, unless they be recommended by the judge who sentence the prisoner, and there be good evidence that pardon should be granted

"It is hard." said he, speaking of the matter of pardons, "to resist the pleas made to me mothers, wives and daughters; but I must uphold the laws." Pardoned from the Chaingang.

The governor granted one pardon yesterday. He pardoned William Bailey, a former porter at Jerry Lynch's, recently sent to the Fulton pardon was recommended by the judge and Bailey's child has been ill for several days, and his friends worked earnestly to have the pardon granted and allow him to be at his ld's side before the little one expired.

The governor signed the pardon at 4 o'clock vesterday afternoon, but while he was writing t a telephone message came that the child had just expired.

Baily is free now. But his experience as "crap" player has been sad. A New Solicite

W. W. Harrell sent in his resignation as solicitor of the county court of Decatur county yesterday and the governor appointed Frank S. Harrell to fill out the unexpired term until the legislature meets. Widows' Pensions.

Yesterday afternoon the number of applications for widows' pensions had increased to 2,500, and they are yet coming in at the rate of fifty a day. The Ladies Delighted.

The pleasant effect and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favorite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effectual in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 12.—In the stock market prices drooped, and in some cases declined materially. The principal cause for the check to an upward movement is to be found in the disquieting news from abroad, London and continental houses being depressed through heavy sales of Portuguese and Spanish securities, which brought everything else along with them, to some extent. There were further engagements of gold, but these were not of such magnitude as to cause any decline of note, and hesitatation is to be traced to a fear of further financial complications abroad, which will necessitate a further drain upon the United States for funds. The favorable items in the situation are all to be found in this country, while the disquieting conditions are all abroad at present, and the situation in the stock market hinges upon the probabilities of a further withdrawal of gold in the near future or a return of some of that already sent. Until this uncertainty is removed, therefore, the general expectation with the advented the archest with the archest where the thread were the force of the control of the co tainty is removed, therefore, the general expectation is for a feverish and unsettled market, with little aniis for a feverish and unsettled market, with little animation outside of a few leading stocks, which are now in the hands of cliques. Early advices from London this morning reported a panicky feeling there, and the same was reported of Paris, and at the opening of our market London was seller to a moderate extent, making a feverish and lower opening, the losses from last night's figures extending to % per cent. There was, however, an undertone of strength left in the market, and most of the opening loss was regained in early trading, but a lack of buyers soon made itself felt, and the drooping tendency became prevalent, which carthe drooping tendency became prevalent, which car-ried prices down again, and they remained below the level of the opening for the rest of the day. Industrials were again prominent in the market, taking second were again prominent in the market, taking second rank to Grangers, but sugar was decidedly weak, and Cordage only a little less so. Industrial stocks continue to be offered to the public, and seem to meet with favor, even when the stock market is depressed, especially when a satisfactory showing of earnings, as well as assets, is made. A steady decline in prices reached material proportions toward delivery hour, when an effort to cover shorts made a slight rally in the market. The only strong point in list during the day were Wheeling and Lake Eric stocks, and preferred stands alone this evening in showing a small advance. Bubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, May 12—[Special.]—Advices from Liverpool were of a disappointing tenor, due, our cables tell us, to the fear of political troubles arising from the monetary crisis in Portugal and the demands of Russis for gold. Our market has responded but slowly to the decline abroad, though closing at the lowest prices under heavy offerings by the bears, who naturally take advantage of the fears created by the continued shipments of gold from America, to force weak holdens to dispose of their cotton. The bearish feeling pregeninates in all the cotton markets, despite the unfavorable advices that come to hand from the Atlantic states and Alabama regarding the poor prospects for the growing crop. No rain has fallen east of the Mississippi. Everywhere it is budly needed, while mail advices to hand from North Carollina confirm our earlier advices as to the extent of the damage from the recent frost and dry weather. In Texas welcome rains fell yesterday as far north as Corsicana. Receipts continue very heavy, reaching 17,000 bales, but the controlling influence in the market today has been the fear of financial troubles abroad.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, May 12.—The panicky feeling in the financial centers of Europe over the fiscal situation in Portugal was not reflected in the wheat pit here, as such matters usually are. Wheat acted all the forenoon as though it was scoring for an advance. During the last hour the advance came. Bearish news; no matter how important, seemed to have but temporary effect. Bullish news, however, met ready response. The festure of the session was the strength of May. July opened at 97% (95%) and quickly advanced to 99% c, influenced somewhat by the news in the morning papers that the man-of-war Charleston was steaming down the Pacific coast in pursuit of the Itata with the possibility of a fight. The market hung around this figure as the rallying point for a long time, and it was aster noon when another decided movement was made, which eventually carried prices to $1.01%, the highest figure of the day, though this was not accomplished without stubborn resistance from the bears, who made a number of raids on the way up. They succeeded in driving prices Grain and Provisions.

born resistance from the bears, who made a number of raids on the way up. They succeeded in driving prices down to 99% c several times, and to 99c once. Reports of panics on the Parls bourse and in Portugal were the main items of news on the bear side. The closling Parls cables were higher, and gave the bulls a great deal of courage, as they served to discredit the public reports of panic there. Realising sales sent the price off a little at the close.

Corn was as stubbornly strong as wheat. There was a good lively trade. Shorts were made nervous by the fact that local receipts were 65 cars short of the estimates, and that the estimates for tomorrow were extremely light. The bulge in wheat also helped to frighten many shorts into buying. July opened at 58% 58%, sold off to 58c, advanced, with one or two reactions, to 58%, c, closing slightly lower.

Outs were active and firmer.

Provisions were raided early by large shorts who were playing for a break to cover on. The result was a recession of 22% in the price of July pork, which suffered the brunt of the attack, of 2% in July lard and of 7% in July ribs from the opening. Later, in and of 7½c in July ribs from the opening. Later, in sympathy with the grains, there was a rally to a point

THEATER MANAGERS.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOUTHERN CIRCUIT VESTERDAY.

The Old Officers All Re-Elected—A Resolu-tion Passed—Mr. Tannenbaum Talks About the Circuit.

The regular annual meeting of the managers of opera houses included in the southern circuit was held in Atlanta yesterday.

The following cities were represented: Atlanta, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Mobile, Pensacola, Meridian, Macon, Anniston, Augusta, Knoxville, Savannah, Jacksonville, Athens, Columbus and Rome, and others of the lesser cities in the states of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Wississippi and North and South Carolina, South Carolina,

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

President, L. DeGive, of Atlanta; vice president, Frank P. O'Brien, of Birmingham; secretary, Paul R. Albert, of Chattanoga; treasurer, Fritz Staub, of Knoxville; general manager, J. Tannenbaum, of Mobile. Quite a lot of routine business was transacted. This resolution, introduced by Mr. O'Brien, and adopted unanimously, was furor hished, and adopted unanimously, was furnished for publication:

Whereas, The southern circuit, since its organization five years ago, has proven to be eminently successful in procuring the best attractions ever brought to this section, thereby benefiting the imanagers, as well as the theater patrons; and.

Whereas, It has been demonstrated that, since the organization of the southern managers, the attractions have grown stronger each year, the theater patronage better satisfied and the combinations better remunerated, thus enabling the cities represented to suppress many unworthy attractions; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the existence of the combination of southern managers, known as the "Southern Circuit." be and is hereby continued for a term of three years from this date, and all the theatrical cities as represented here this day agree to abide by this agreement. Be it further

Resolved, That we have the utmost confidence in Mr. J. Tannenbaum, our general manager, and that he be employed in this capacity, for the term of the agreement as resolved above.

On motion of Mr. J. Tannenbaum, the secretary was ordered to notify all combination managers of the adoption of the above resolunished for publication:

managers of the adoption of the above resolutions, and that the business of the southern circuit would be carried on in the same manner as heretofore, which is especially applicable to such combinations as have worked in unison with the purposes of the organization heretofore.

The next meeting will probably be held at Knoxville.

MANAGER TANNENBAUM TALKS

MANAGER TANNENBAUM TALKS.

"The purposes of our organization," said Mr. Tannenbaum last night, "are not generally understood—or rather, perhaps, they are generally misunderstood. We are not trying to maintain a monopoly in our line, or anything of that sort. A fair investigation will show that our organization benefits the public, the traveling companies and ourselves alike.

"It benefits the public by giving them a better class of entertainments. Within the past two years the south has become the best circuit in the United States. Atlants had last season every good company that went to New Orleans—that is, the very best on the road.

"It is a mistake to believe that the more opera houses a town has the better for the theater-goers. Memphis will illustrate. Until the last season it was not only the best theater town in the south, but there wasn't a better in the United States. Last season it had three opera houses instead of one, and it is now the poorest town in the south. Good companies avoid it. The whole patronage of the town was sufficient to attract the best companies on the road, but one-third of it is no inducement for any good company. The opera houses there didn't pay running expenses last season, I am told, to say nothing of interest on the money invested. In their eagerness to fill up on something they took just anything that came along, while good companies avoided it, and theatergoers sighed in vain for the high-class entertainment they had had formerly. The opera houses lost money; it was a town out for the companies on the road, and the people opera houses lost money; it was a town out for the companies on the road, and the people suffered most of all.

"Now, two of the houses there are about to consolidate, as they had to in Indianapolis. That is, the two houses are under the same management, and when one house is open the other closes—a waste of the capital expended in one house.

"The average company will average less in Richmond, Va., than in Troy, Ala. Result: Good companies avoid Richmond. The best would go there if they could play without opposition, but split up the patronage and they skip Richmond for a smaller town that pays skip Richmond for a smaller town that pays better.

"Our object is not to protect opera houses already built, by a combination, and squeeze all the profit out we can. Since our organization, five years ago, we have brought about the building of new opera houses in Chattanooga, Knoxvilie, Macon, Jacksonville, Augusta and other places.

"Atlanta was considered a very good place; but we believed Atlanta would support a better opera house. So we said to Mr. DeGive: 'We can't afford to protect your house unless its first-class for the town. The one you have is good, but Atlanta should have a better.' So he builds a new one.

"So with Birmingham, where Mr. O'Brien is building a new one.

"So with Mobile, where I am building a new one—all of these to be ready by the season of '92-'93.

"Then, if we were simply a monopoly, or of '92-'93.

"Then, if we were simply a monopoly, or our demands unreasonable, the managers of companies—the combination managers—would be first to kick. But so far from that, the southern circuit has its endorsement of all of them. It's business with them, and their interests are protected or you would be sure to lear from them.

them. It's obsiness with them, and their interests are protected or you would be sure to hear from them.

"And more than that. The advantage of our organization is a mutual benefit. If Atlanta were to start three opera houses, for example, it would hurt not only Atlanta, but every town in the southern circuit. Troups come south for the aggregate inducements. Atlanta helps bring good companies here, and as long as they are this far they go on to other places. They wouldn't come to this section at all, maybe, but for Atlanta's being a good town. With Atlanta split up, it would be for a good company a blank place on the map—no town there, at all—and longer jumps all around.

"So any town, by mismanagement, can hurt all the other towns in the circuit—and when I say hurt the town, I mean the theater-going people as well as the opera house owners.

"The southern circuit is stronger now than byer."

A Safe Remedy.

A Safe Remedy.

When a person is sick they wish more than aught else a restoration of health. They are willing to take even nauseous medicine in order to get well. With many, however, a first consideration is whether the medicine is perfectly safe. Will it or will it not leave any evil after-effects? Now, there is one remedy known to be perfectly safe. It is a botanical discovery, and it is called Botanic Blood Balm or B. B. B. It will not harm the most delicate constitution, nor will a discontinuance cause a craving for its further use. It is a sure antidote for poison in the blood. The blood becomes poisoned in various ways. Constipation, urinary difficulties and other causes of effect matter remaining in the system will cause blood impurity, or blood poison, as many call it. Symptoms of blood poison should not be neglected. B. B. B. should be taken at once. It will cure promptly, and is not bad to take, nor will it leave any evil after-effects.

J. D. Watkins, Blakely, Ga., writes: "Old sores covered my entire person and itched intensely night and day. For several months I could not work at all. I commenced the use of Botanic Blood Balm and began to grow better the first week, and am now sound and well, free from sores and itching and at work again."

A MODEL CHICKEN COOP WANTED. For the Humane Society will Protect Chickens as well as Large Animals.

To protect dray horses and mules.
That is the next step in the policy of the Humane Society.
"At present," said Mr. A. B. Carrier, the superintendent, yesterday, "there is an ordinance by which hack horses are inspected by the chief of police. Since such a law went into effect, the beneficial results have been obvious.

"Will that, if successful, have the desired effect?"

"It has worked splendidly so far as the hack horses are concerned. They are being better taken care of, better treated, and you don't see the same class of animals used previous to the time when the inspection began. We see ne reason why it wouldn't work similarly in this case.

"Another thing requiring our attention," continued Mr. Carrier, "is the chickens placed on sale in this city. The number of complaints regarding them that have been filed in the past few days is surprising. They are crowded together in coops, exposed to the heat of the sun the entire day, and afterwards sold to go on our tables. In this feverish and diseased condition their unwholsomeness is apparent. Since last Wednesday we know of three cases where chickens have died from want of care, and yet sold with others in order to fill out orders for a dozen or half dozen. That is to consumers.

I am consulting with several commission merchants so as to meet the actual requirements of trade, in order that when completed the coop shall be a model one. Bradycrotine is a blessing to Headache

Cumberland Gap, Tenn., is the center of the great industrial development of the south. Two great railroads flow pass through the city and more lines are being built.

The Inquisition was established in Spain during the 15th century for the suppression of heresy. No matter how hon est the funders may have been, history tells us that it was used solely for personal advancement and financial gain, and the means employed and measures used to force the heretics into subjections.

measures used to force the heretics into subjection were fearful to contemplate. In the acquisition of a better knowledge and more advanced civilization, these measures were abandoned and religious toleration was the result.

Formerly the best informed would tell you that piles, fistula, etc., could only be cured by the use of the knife, caustic burning and other resources equally barbarous. In the acquisition of a more advanced knowledge, there is no necessity for any such treatment. My treatment of these diseases is based upon common sense. No pain, and you get a permanent cure. You can't want more. This is no experiment, but actual results that I have obtained in the exclusive treatment of these troubles for years. Do you want to investigate? This is no experiment, the control of these troubles for years. Do you want to investigate? If so write me, and I will give you any information you may wish. I am willing for you to put me to the test, and if you are willing to be convinced I can do it. Respectfully,

Work on the extension of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery is progressing rap-idly. A prominent official of that road has said that there is no doubt now but that the road would be completed and trains running into Montgomery early in June. Only a short gap remains to be closed, and the 1,000 men employed on the construction will, do doubt, make short work of that.

The Macon public library will have an excursion Saturday, May 23d. The Central of Georgia will run a special excursion train, leaving Atlanta at 7:10 o'clock a. m. and arriving at Savannah and Tybee the same evening. Tickets will be good to return on any train until and including May 26th. Tickets from Atlanta are $5.50.

The long distance record for time has been broken by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. The time made was 102 miles an hour, the train that made the record being a special one run to accommodate Jay Gould on his recent trip over that line.

The route traveled was from Council Bluffs to Clinton, Ia., the distance being 350 miles, and the actual time consumed seven hours and five minutes. The time lost in taking water, etc., makes the actual running time 400 minutes to make the 350 miles.

The people of Newnan are highly elated at the absorbation by the Central of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus. By the merging of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus in the Central, it will have a continuous line from the gateway of the west to the sea; and there is every reason to believe that now, more than ever, it will be to the interest of that great system to extend the Columbus and Rome road from Greenville to Newnan, thus giving it an independent line from Chattanooga to Columbus, and shorter by some thirty miles.

Four monster locomotives of special construction were lately shipped from the Baldwin works, Philadelphia, for the St. Clair tunnel, between Port Sarnia, Ont., and Port Huron, Mich., the locomotives being of the tank class, without tenders, the tanks being on both sides of the boiler and having a canacity of 2,000 gallons. pacity of 2,000 gallons

N THE PREMISES! On Railroad and Winn Avenues, ough Streets. Right at the Agnes Scott Semi-tur Dummy Line.

These lots are among the most desirable at Decatur; in one of the best neighborhoods there, and very convenient to the dummy line and the Ga. R. R. depot. They are all large, and vary in size from 60x180 ft. to 118x445 feet, and are all covered with trees. It has been a number of years since an auction sale of real estate has been held at Decatur, and with the increased transportation facilities to and from Atlanta this sale should prove a very attractive one. Decatur has long desired a dummy line to Atlanta, and now since this desire has been gratified look out for rapid enhancement in real estate and a great many improvements made. The attractiveness of Decatur as a place of residence has been so long known, and its reputation so well established, we will not dwell on them.
